

"Dust Bowl" Watched.
Washington, April 23 (AP).—AAA kept a close watch on the great western "dust bowl" today after Secretary Wallace said another dry month would bring critical conditions there. Weather reports showed that drought conditions were severe in Oklahoma, that western Kansas was very dry, and little or no rain has fallen recently in Arkansas.

$1,761 Reported for First Day of "Y" Drive

Wednesday evening at the first report meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Financial Drive held at the "Y," the workers reported a total of $1,761 for the first day of the campaign. Following a dinner prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the "Y," the workers of the campaign were addressed by Mayor C. J. Helmsman. Another report meeting will be held at the "Y" this evening at 6:26. At last night's meeting, General Chairman Clarence Dumm presided and introduced the chairman of the Speakers Committee, Dr. Julian I. Gifford, who introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mayor C. J. Helmsman. The Mayor spoke briefly on the needs of youth and the contribution this campaign can make to meet that need. The dinner served at last night's meeting was served by ladies from the First Reformed, Second Reformed and St. James M. E. Churches.

At last night's meeting, the Giants turned in 37 pledges, amounting to $312. The Cubs turned in 45 pledges, amounting to $238.52. The Cardinals turned in 24 pledges, amounting to $158. The Pirates turned in 12 pledges, amounting to $46. The Initial Gift Committee handed in 15 pledges amounting to $1,005 bringing the total up to $1,761. At present the Giants lead the league, having one run and eight men on first base. The Cubs have seven men on first base and the Cardinals have two men on second base.

CENTRAL HUDSON DISTRICT P.T.A. A. SPRING MEETING

The annual spring conference of the Central Hudson District, New York Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be held at the Presbyterian Church, Poughkeepsie, Saturday, May 16, beginning at 9 a. m. Mrs. Harry E. McCormick of Cornwall, district director, will preside. The theme will be "Recreation vs. Crime."

Christadelphian Meeting
An unusual treat will be in store for the Christadelphian Society's meeting tonight at the Elmendorf Street Hall when Mr. Stern, noted optometrist of this city, will be on hand to deliver an interesting talk. President Irwin Thomas requests all members and their friends to be there promptly at 8:15. Following the talk, the organization has planned a covered dish supper which will be served to all the attendees. Music, dancing and other forms of entertainment will conclude the night's activities.

SPRING SONGS FOR MOTORISTS

Oh, the buttercups are cupping,
And the dew is on the posies,
There's spring in every young man's step,
And colds in people's noses—
In short, it is the time of year
When one dreams at his toll—
And, please recall this vital fact,
It's time to change your oil.

Yes, spring is in the air, folks,
Farewell to winter's chill—
Change now to Gulfube Summer Grade
And duck a damage bill!

Oh, the robins are up from the Southland,
And the daffodils up from the soil—
But Gulfube's still down to a quarter a quart
For a premium quality oil!

Kentucky Keeps Its Colonels

Titles Safe—By Courtesy—Despite Attack

Louisville, Ky., (AP)—Kentucky colonels no longer! Perish the thought. When the stake horses prance to the starting gate May 2 for the sixty-second Kentucky Derby, they'll be at the rails and in the boxes as old. And they'll be as much "colonels" as they ever were.

At home will be their commissions—15,000 of them—brave with blue ribbons and shining with the gold seal of this commonwealth.

The colonels' right to those titles is quite secure. It doesn't exist to be attacked. That goes, too, for the admirals, commodores and generals of this commonwealth, for its magician royal, its philosopher of state and all other officials and dignitaries whom the whimsy of Kentucky's governors has created.

"They aren't colonels any more," says Attorney General B. M. Vincent. "From a recent decision of the court of appeals, I deduce that the colonels expire with the governors who appointed them. (The present governor has appointed none since he assumed office.) They have no right to their commissions any more. But—and he sighed—"I can't find in the statutes any authority for making them give the commissions back."

"In fact, nowhere in the constitution or the statutes can I find where the governors had any authority to appoint colonels in the first place. So not only aren't they colonels any more, they never were colonels—except by courtesy."

Former Governor Ruby Laffoon, who had a staff of 5,000, replies: "Once a colonel, always a colonel."

So Colonel Mae West, Colonel Shirley Temple and all their associates remain safely titled with their commissions intact and their status imprugnable for life—"by courtesy."

LANGUAGE OF JESUS TRACED TO ORIGIN

Ancient Aramaic Is Studied at Chicago University.

Chicago.—The language that Jesus spoke—Aramaic—is being traced word for word from its earliest beginnings before the Persian kings ruled the world to its development in the Syriac of the Sixth century by Dr. Raymond A. Bowman, instructor in oriental languages at the University of Chicago's Oriental Institute.

The occurrence of every known word in Aramaic is noted, traced, dated, and translated from passages on manuscripts, tablets, bowls, and vases discovered in areas from the Caucasus mountains to southern Egypt, from Greece to India.

"We are chiefly interested in the material on Aramaic for historical reasons," said Doctor Bowman. "We are finding personal names, geographical names, and names of deities which are of utmost importance to the history of the ancient empires and nations of the East. We are particularly interested in the cultures of the many peoples who used Aramaic."

Five Years' More Work.

Work on the compilation of Aramaic has been going on for five years. Doctor Bowman considers that he is about half way done with the project. When it is finished, the Oriental Institute will have a complete record of one of the most important languages of the times when the Babylonians, Assyrians, Persians, Greeks, and Romans, successively, ruled the world. It will be enough material to publish a history of Aramaean culture, and Aramaic grammar, and a complete Aramaic dictionary.

"Many static and set phrases and formulae, such as lawyers use today in their documents, are contained in these documents," Doctor Bowman said. "These aid in making good guesses in filling in the meaning of fragmentary manuscripts where large gaps cause difficulties in reading, and only hints remain as to what the author meant."

In addition there are a large number of words which can only be found once from all available sources which are in dispute among scholars, as well as many personal names that can be separated into meaningful components. "To take an Assyrian example," said Doctor Bowman, "a personal name such as Nebuchadnezzar can be broken down to 'Nebu,' meaning 'God'; 'kudur,' meaning 'boundary'; and 'nazu,' meaning 'protect.' The real meaning of Nebuchadnezzar, then, is 'God protect my boundaries.' So with many Semitic personal names we can break them down to the basic words and re-forms for purposes of classification."

Reach Christian Era.

"The work has been completed up to the time of the Christian era," he said, "although, in general, it was on the decline from the time of the Greeks onward. It exists today in its later form as Syriac."

"After its decline, the outlying villagers and nomads continued to speak Aramaic. The passage in the New Testament of the Bible where Peter was singled out from the multitude by his Galilean speech is an example of how Aramaic persisted in the provinces."

"Just as the Phoenician language and alphabet spread westward to supply the basis for Greek, Latin, and European alphabets, so the Aramaic, derived from the same Phoenician alphabet, spread to the East. Chinese books have been discovered in central Asia, which were written with an alphabet derived from the Aramaic."

An obscure language, "Pahlavi," which will shortly be taught at the Oriental Institute by Dr. Martin Sprengling, professor of Semitic languages and literature, is a Persian language in which Aramaic words are pronounced in the Persian manner. Dr. John A. Wilson, acting director of the Oriental Institute and successor to Dr. James Henry Breasted, said.

Death of Wm. C. Kyer, Was Postal Employee

William C. Kyer, who retired about three years ago after serving 31 years in the postal service, died in Kingston Wednesday. Mr. Kyer was formerly postmaster at Connelly. Later he became a clerk in the up-town station of the Kingston post office and then was transferred to the central office, where he remained until his retirement. He was a member of the Church of the Redeemer, Roudout Lodge No. 343, F. & A. M., Aetna Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Jr. O. U. A. M.

Mr. Kyer is survived by his wife, who was formerly Mary Fox; two daughters, Mary, wife of Clyde Mould, and Miss Olive Kyer; two grandchildren, William and Robert Mould, all of Kingston; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Osborn of this city, and Mrs. Wallace Schryver, of Long Island; three brothers, George Kellerman of Hoboken, N. J., Harry Kellerman of Kingston, and Frederick Kellerman of Roselle Park, N. J. The funeral will be held from the parlors of A. Carr and Son, 1 Pearl street, Saturday afternoon at 2-30, with interment in Montrose Cemetery.

UPSTATE CONFERENCE OF COMMUNAL AGENCIES

Representatives of 15 of the major communities will meet Saturday and Sunday, May 2-3, in Syracuse for the second annual Up-State New York Conference of Communal Agencies.

The New York Conference is a regional division of the National Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. All sessions of the conference will be held at the Temple Society of Concord.

The program will consist of presentations of the various problems facing organized Jewish communal groups, and discussion on how to solve them, according to the announcement sent out by Bertram Aufesser of Albany, president of the conference.

Sessions will open on Saturday night, at which discussion will center on new forms of local community organization, and an outline of the Jewish overseas situation with special emphasis on Palestine and Germany.

Three sessions will be held on Sunday, devoted to "Problems in Economic Adjustment," "Communal Responsibility for Jewish Educational Programs," and "Financing Non-Local Causes."

An important meeting of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday evening, April 28, beginning at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to be present and all prospective members are welcome to attend. A revised report on the constitution and by-laws of the organization will be read for the voting approval of the membership.

Sicily's Capital

Palerme, the capital of Sicily, and principal seaport, is set in an amphitheater of groves, with a range of mountains as background. A busy, bright little city, its bay has often been compared to the bay of Naples and like many another Italian city it is famous for its churches. Small two wheeled carts drawn by donkeys are seen everywhere in Palermo and in all Sicily. Wheels are carved and gorgeously colored, the panels on the sides and the two in the door at the back are decorated with pictures sometimes historical subjects, sometimes religious, and the whole is the peasant's most valued possession. On festive days there are often competitions for the finest carts, donkeys are decked out in huge plumes, harness trimmed with gold, silver or nickel, and the gathering rivals in glamor a circus parade.

BUILDS UNIQUE CHEST FROM RED CEDAR AND SUMACH

A cedar chest of unusual and striking design now graces the apartments of Night Jailor Lyman Ellsworth and his wife at the court house. The chest, presented to Mrs. Ellsworth by her father, John Spinnenweber of Port Ewen, stands two feet high, is nearly four feet long and 20 inches in width and is made of native woods—red cedar and alternate narrow strips of sumach—with brass trimmings. It is entirely hand-made, Mr. Spinnenweber having made it from lumber which he got out himself, and is certainly a credit to its builder, especially when it is taken into consideration that the latter is well past his "three score years and ten".

Mr. Spinnenweber is a well known boat builder of Port Ewen although not now actively engaged at his craft. He was foreman of construction for the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation and was in charge of the building of the first ship that left the ways at their Kingston yard during the World War.

Human nature's about the same East or West. The Japs, being small, want to kick around the Chinese.

Nation's Interest in

Dogs Seen to Be Rising

New York.—The nation's rising interest in dogs is shown graphically in statistics of the American Kennel club showing registered or registrable pedigree dogs are valued at $40,000,000. The club also reveals that $75,000,000 is invested in approximately 5,000 kennels in the United States.

As near as can be determined there are 15,000,000 dogs in this country. Although many of these must forage for themselves, the more fortunate consume more than $1,000,000 worth of canned food annually.

There are 103 distinct breeds of dogs with the Boston terrier ranking first in popularity this year and the cocker spaniel second. Last year more than a million persons paid admissions to the various shows.

Treasures Lock of Hair From King Edward's Head

Lorain, Ohio.—Other girls may treasure memories of a dance with the former prince of Wales, now King Edward VIII, but Miss Margaret Wickens, Lorain school teacher, has a treasure she prizes much more highly—a lock of hair from the head of Great Britain's new monarch.

The lock of hair was clipped when the prince was a child. It was given to Miss Wickens by an aunt, Mrs. Martha Martin, who was an employee in the household of the great English statesman, William Pitt the Great.

Historic Mediterranean

There is only one sea that has been contemporary with all history—the Mediterranean. The Pacific and the Atlantic have been known to us for less than a thousand years, but the "Mare Mediterraneum" has been the "Great Sea" from the unremembered past.

H. Starr, Mrs. James Ransley, Mrs. George Gunasius.

There are over four thousand peals of bells in the British Isle, and about forty thousand devotees of the craft of change ringing. Outside Great Britain change ringing may be heard only in certain parts of the empire and in a few places in the United States where the tradition was established by English immigrants.

G. O. P. Picks Fighting Keynoter, Stranger to National Conventions

Senator Frederick Stelwer won the designation as 1936 Republican keynoter by his spirited party leadership in the Senate and by rallying G. O. P. forces in many parts of the country.

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington (AP)—Senator Frederick Stelwer of Oregon is to enjoy a unique introduction to the drama of national political conventions. He will be "keynoter" for the Republicans when they meet at Cleveland in June to nominate a presidential candidate.

Senator Stelwer will stand on a platform facing photographers' flash lights, grinding movie cameras and some 12,000 people. He will be the center of flattery, silence, bursts of clapping and frenzied cheering.

He never has been to a convention, not even as a spectator. He has been too busy out in the northwestern corner of the nation to do more of his party's chores than those that came easily to his hand. He has managed a large wheat farm, handled flocks of sheep, studied both agriculture and law, gone to the war, served as district attorney, and in 1926 was elected to the Senate. He was re-elected in 1932 on the Republican ticket despite the general landslide for the Democrats.

Carries Attack In Senate

In the last two years spectators in the Senate gallery have learned that a spell-binding speech from the Democratic side of the floor usually meant a biting retort from either Stelwer or Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, on the Republican side.

Stelwer does his fighting over issues. He ignores attacks on persons, and he seems too intent and intense to indulge in persiflage.

But before he engages in the fights on the Senate floor he spends hours in his office or at his home studying poring over government reports.

For instance, right now he has three filing cabinets full of material he has gathered on federal relief administration. Those files represent the preparation he has done for argument on the new $1,500,000,000 relief bill which is due before the Senate before the close of this session.

Speaks At Rallies

Stelwer's mop of wavy gray hair, his six-foot-two, his huge shoulders, are becoming familiar in Republican circles. In recent months he has addressed Republican state conventions in North Carolina and Maine. He has led the program at party rallies in Pennsylvania, New York and Rhode Island.

Following each saunter into the hinterland he returns to the capital followed by rumors that he, and not Senator Vandenberg, is the "dark horse" to watch at the Cleveland convention.

His attack on the "new deal" have touched almost every part of the administration program. He doesn't deny the need for relief measures, but he has criticized bitterly the manner in which federal relief has been handled. He has gone along with appropriations for federal housing measures, and entered energetically into the Senate's investigation of the stock market.

He doesn't assail farm relief as a governmental responsibility, but he demands that an "adequate, permanent and constitutional measure be written."

MURDER CHARGE FOR TWO IN DEATH OF SMALL BOY.

Altosna, Pa., April 23 (AP)—The death of 3-year-old Matthew (Sonny) Karmendi from a broken skull suddenly became a murder case today and police pointed to a conspiracy between Sonny's mother and the man who lately had been her companion on journeys to movie theatres.

Assistant District Attorney Robert J. Puderbaugh announced shortly after midnight that Mrs. Margaret Karmendi, 24, and Roy Lockard, 24, both had signed sworn statements—each accusing the other of striking little Sonny with a heavy bolt or railroad spike.

The boy died Tuesday night. Lockard took him to a hospital and told police that while he was carrying Sonny home an automobile sped past and a door handle apparently pierced the baby's head. The woman's husband was at work. Puderbaugh said both will be formally charged with murder.

Chewing Headaches

St. Louis, April 23 (AP)—Many headaches resembling those caused by sinus trouble are actually a result of excessive chewing and bad teeth. Dr. James B. Soren of St. Louis told members of the American Society of Orthodontists who are in session here today. He said these headaches are caused by pressure of the point of the jaw and the skull against nerves in the head. Dr. Costen, professor of otolaryngology at Washington University School of Medicine, said a study of more than 1,000 cases shows that this same pressure may also be responsible for a deafness like that caused by catarrh, and for abnormally dry mouth.

Feminine Hands Guided Ireland Long, Long Ago

The queens of ancient Ireland and especially of Ulster figure prominently in the history and folklore of the land. "This fact is one of the reasons why Ireland is always represented as a beautiful woman," states a writer in the New York World-Telegram, who tells how one need only enter the ports of Belfast, Londonderry or Dublin to feel the shadowy presence of these queenly Cinderellas of the past. "There is hardly a district but what an ancient castle, some relic, or local songs or folklores do not contain reference to a fairy queen of Ireland. History records that through feminine rivalry, queenoms vied with one another in primitive arts."

When the Milesians, or Gaels, first landed in Ireland they were ruled by a queen named Scotia, and they found here a people called the Danians. And the Danians were ruled by three kings, who were not only brothers, but married to three sisters. The names of these three sister queens were Eire, Banba and Fiola and their three names are often taken to signify Ireland. In fact, Ireland is said to derive its name from the first sister, Eire.

In far distant times, the queens of Ireland wore clothes of seven different colors and none but royalty might wear clothes of the same colors. A wise councillor of the queen wore a dress of six colors, a nobleman of the court was garmented in five colors, and so on, according to rank down to one color. It is from these queenly colors that early Irish peasants took their costume colors of dress.

At Belfast, one sees evidence of the reign of the great Irish Empress Macha, "Queen of the Golden Hair." While the capital of northern Ireland is only three centuries old, Queen Macha was born in Ulster and ruled all Ireland for seven years.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, April 22—In The Clove Reformed Church beginning Sunday, April 26, Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a. m. and morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Daylight Saving Time.

Mrs. Orrie Smith and daughter, Marjorie, and her daughter's friend, Shirley Adair, of East Meredith, motored to High Falls on Saturday, April 11. Mrs. Smith remained to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Festus Yeaple, while the girls visited friends in New Jersey, returning on Friday. All spent the week-end at the Yeaple home returning to East Meredith on Sunday.

Miss Jessie Snyder entertained the Lend-a-hand Society at her home on Saturday afternoon. The subject was the story of the young Hawaiian Ohookiah who was the means of bringing Christianity to Hawaii. Pineapple juice and coconut cake were served in keeping with the theme of the day.

Miss Cynthia Van Wagenen left for Kingston early Saturday morning where she met her friend, Miss Florence Vroom. They motored to Miss Vroom's cottage at Sabbath Day Point on Lake George, where Miss Van Wagenen will be a guest of Miss Vroom's for a week or longer.

Miss Bessie DuBois and Mrs. Katherine Schoonmaker of New Paltz called on Miss Kate Krom Saturday.

The Rev. Clarence Howard, Russell Trowbridge and Stanley Steen attended the spring classes held at the Gardner Reformed Church Tuesday, April 21, at 10:30 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gunasius of Highland called on Mrs. Mary Krom Sunday afternoon.

Francis Wager was a supper guest at Stanley Steen's home on Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Roosa and Ben Roosa called at the home of Stanley Steen on Sunday.

Margaret Steen, who is employed in Kingston, and baby David Gally, are spending the week at the Steen home.

Miss Viola Yeaple is now spending a week at the home of Mrs. Ella W. Church before accepting a position in the home of Judge Culliton in Kingston.

Carlton Church is now employed regularly to drive one of the town trucks.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 2 pints a day and so get rid of more than 2 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you out.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Schmid Talks on Mail Order System

Alfred Schmid, who sells handkerchiefs, hosiery and underwear through the mails, brought an enlightening vocational talk to the members and guests at Rotary yesterday noon in the Governor Clinton and his comprehensive discussion on the mail order system of selling opened up unexplored fields to his listeners as he explained the merits and pitfalls of this universal method of selling merchandise. Mr. Schmid, who is a past president of the local Rotary organization, was introduced by Arthur Coligan, chairman of the entertainment committee.

During the short business session which preceded the program, John H. Morrison, manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in this district, was welcomed into the club as a new member. Arthur Connelly represented the club as spokesman in the informal welcome to Mr. Morrison.

Mr. Schmid's talk was as follows:

During the past four or five years many have studied the mail order field, some with the feeling that perhaps here might be an opportunity to start out for oneself, to build up a business, to achieve success. There were also many actively engaged in business who became interested in the idea of selling by mail as a means of regaining some of their sales volume.

Like any other commercial endeavor, there are pitfalls to be avoided, just as there are rules to be followed and this seems to apply to those now engaged in this work as well as to those contemplating it.

Few things are more fascinating than mail order work—for several reasons. Here is a business that can be controlled; that can be built swiftly; that requires no unusual amount of capital; that provides full expression for the ingenuity and individuality of its operator; and it is a business that can often be made quite profitable.

And that brings us to the question: "What is a mail order business?" There are many definitions. Perhaps the simplest is the statement that a mail order business is one in which the orders for goods or services are received through the mails, either as a result of direct mailings of circulars or letters, or as a result of order-bringing advertisements placed in newspapers or magazines. In other words we might say all orders are obtained through the persuasive power of the printed word.

In a mail order business it is possible to "work" a single city or a state or an entire section of the whole country. One may concentrate on specific groups of individuals, such as physicians, lawyers, clergymen or sell to a much wider market. Much depends, obviously, upon what is being sold and the general condition of the section to be covered by direct mail effort.

A person need not have any special qualifications to be successful in selling by mail. Anyone who knows something of human nature, has had some business experience and has the right attitude of mind can succeed. The right attitude of mind is obviously of great importance, for a person with the right attitude is interested in developing customers and not in just making a single sale. He wants to give his purchasers the very best value he can, realizing that his profits will come from the repeat orders he gets. He wants people who deal with him to be so well satisfied that they will recommend whatever he is selling to their friends. When he does this—both through the excellence of his merchandise and the reasonableness of his claims and his offer—he has built that customer confidence which leads to success.

Does it require very much capital to start with is a question that is often asked. There are a few men who have started with $100 and built up a business that showed gross sales of three or four million dollars annually. Those cases are very unusual. One must set aside enough money to do a real job. Maybe your first offer won't click. That may not mean your idea isn't sound. It may simply mean reshaping your proposition or using a different appeal. But it takes money to do these things. The best product can't be sold if it isn't given a real chance. A great deal depends too on what you want to sell. It may be wearing apparel, food, books, etc., or it may be a service such as a correspondence course or collection service. One must also take into consideration that expenditures for stationery, printing and postage mount up very rapidly in any mail order business.

Some claim there are very few things that can't be sold by mail—and sold profitably. Certain things, however, do not seem to lend themselves to mail order selling, such as very heavy or bulky goods or low priced articles, such as those selling for 5c or 10c; low priced articles singly and where there is no chance for repeat orders; merchandise—such as shoes—where it is difficult to assure a satisfactory fit to the customer; and articles so very limited in appeal as to have a small and quickly exhausted market.

Most mail order specialists select something that either can be sold in volume, to a large number of people; or something that is consumable and made profitable through repeat orders; or something that has a wide enough margin of profit so that each sale is worth while in itself.

Thus we find that the ideal combination is an item used by a great many people, which is consumable and which yields a good profit on each sale. A business built around such a product is likely to be permanent as well as profitable.

No matter what product you intend to sell you will need a mailing list of some kind. A mailing list is very important, in fact, it is the life-blood of your business. A mailing list is simply a list of the names and address of firms or individuals to whom you intend to make your offer; people who are your potential customers.

There are several ways to obtain such a list. You can compile it yourself from city, state and federal records, from trade papers or newspapers and directories, or you can purchase a list already compiled from one of the mailing list companies. These firms are in the business of compiling and renting or selling lists of names and from them you can obtain almost any kind of a list, from 200 odd million automobile owners, down to a list of a dozen or less names of highly specialized companies, such as phonograph needle manufacturers of which there are only nine in the United States. They have literally thousands of different lists, making it possible for you to direct your mailings to exactly the group of firms or individuals you wish to reach.

However, sometimes the list that appeals to you the most may not prove to be the most productive one. Therefore it is well to select two or three of the most likely lists and obtain about 2,000 names of each in order to test them out. On the basis of the results you get from these mailings the complete lists can be bought. If your test was a fair one and the names you used are typical of the list, the chances are that your big mailing will come close to producing the same percentage of returns you got from your tests.

Some of you are probably wondering what returns one should expect to get from a list. That is a question that is very hard to answer because your results will depend on several things—your list, your product and its price, the offer you make, your circular and sales letter, and also upon certain conditions, the time of the year, etc. The only sure way to find out is to test each list. Returns usually run from one to two per cent on up to five per cent and occasionally even more. I have a list on which my returns run a little better than 10 per cent but that is rather unusual. When you find the lists that produce for you, you can work and rework them many times. You can send out several mailings—at intervals of course—and continue to get business from these names. Good lists are your greatest assets, for without some one to sell to you could have no business—and your lists are your potential customers.

Lists are often times misused by firms, organizations, institutions and individuals for unloading miscellaneous articles on people without their consent. The government ruling that a person need not return or pay for un-ordered merchandise sent to him through the mails, will I hope, put an end to that type of mail order business which is very annoying to a great many.

Your business address is sometimes very important. In some instances it can make or break a business. There are some things that are only slightly affected by the address, while others are greatly dependent upon it. There are two things in particular that cannot very well be sold from a small town address. One of them is style. Somehow, probably through association, New York has been "sold" to the country as a style center. Paris of course has been for years, but I'm speaking of this country. Therefore, if you are going to attempt to sell style, you will have to have a stylish address and that means 5th avenue, New York. You might get away with it in a small way with some other address, but you'll never build the business you should have and could have with a 5th avenue address. But that does not necessarily mean that you must have your entire business located there. All you need is an office which could be used as a mailing address or you may even be able to get along with just desk space in some office at a rental of a few dollars a month.

Another thing that needs that sort of background is success. If your prospects live in small towns or the country they look to the cities as the symbols of success and the bigger and more important the city, the more valuable the address. There was a concern that sold a self-improvement course from New York and did a big business but they wanted to cut down their overhead, so they moved to a small town. Their orders dropped off to such an extent that instead of a good profit they were showing a loss. It was the change in address that did it.

If you are located on the street or avenue, or in the town or city which your customers know and recognize as being the best place to buy what you are selling, that is a lot in your favor. They just naturally assume you know what you are talking about and you have access to the best source of supply. Fruit from Florida or California; maple syrup from Vermont; eggs from the country—these are only a few examples of the importance of having a mailing address with your product; and by doing that you at once reduce your customers' resistance; for they have learned to think of your address, in terms of your merchandise.

With a mail order business it is very important that all orders be filled and shipped the same day they are received. If your merchandise is securely packed and carefully addressed it will arrive at its destination in good condition no matter how many miles it has to travel to get there. We have mailed over 21,000 packages in the course of a year, some of them to China, Japan, Germany, England, Porto Rico, Jamaica, Hawaii, Chili, Canada and

Alaska and it is very, very seldom that a package gets lost. That I think is partly due to the fact that our shipments are packed in very sturdy cartons and in mailing envelopes of a heavier and tougher quality than are usually used for that purpose. Our costs may be increased a trifle, but it certainly pays for we have not even had one complaint in the last three years of merchandise being damaged enroute. Up until 1934 the orders we shipped to Chitina, Alaska, were, for several months of the year, transported by dog sled on the final lap of their long journey. Now, however, they have airplane service about once a week to this little settlement of 115 inhabitants. When they send us a letter by ordinary mail it usually takes from 13 to 15 days to reach us.

The letters we receive from our customers are often very interesting. Some speak of their joys and others of their troubles. Although many of them live many miles away and are total strangers to me, they seem more like old friends than just customers. There are no doubt occupations more profitable than mail order work, but in my estimation there are very few, if any, that are more fascinating.

YOU SAVE a Lot of Money when You have a Telephone

DID you ever stop to consider the cost of not having a telephone? The money you now spend—on calls from public telephones, needless trips in your car—not counting the time you waste—might easily pay for a telephone in your home.

And that's not all. Your name in the telephone directory makes it possible for you to receive calls. Calls from friends, news of what's going on among the people you know, invitations, perhaps an opportunity to make a few extra dollars. These are only a few reasons why every family should have a telephone.

And it can be done so easily. If you haven't a telephone why not stop at our Business Office today and talk it over with us? New York Telephone Company.

Early Diagnosis Tuberculosis Drive

FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

WEAPONS

Christmas Seals Help the Fight

Public lethargy and the human desire to avoid facing unpleasant truths are largely responsible for the fact that one out of five deaths between the ages of 15 and 25 in the United States are caused by tuberculosis. This spotlight on the tuberculosis problem in the United States was revealed today by Dr. Fred Holcomb, superintendent of the Ulster County Sanatorium, in explaining why the early diagnosis campaign now being conducted by the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association is a key movement in the long drawn out battle against this disease.

"Those who see the steady stream of patients entering the tuberculosis sanatorium deplore the all too evident delay in making the diagnosis," Dr. Holcomb said. "About five out of each six patients in our sanatoria throughout the country are classified on admission as moderately advanced and far advanced cases of tuberculosis. One reason for delay in diagnosis is undoubtedly to be found in the lethargy of the people, coupled with the common human failing of not wishing to face unpleasant facts. Another reason is that even though the warning signals of tuberculosis have been given widespread publicity in the past, new generations are constantly appearing on the scene and older ones forget so easily.

The founders of the tuberculosis movement realized that only through broad education of the public could any progress against tuberculosis be made. Yet this could be accomplished only with the understanding support of the people. They must know that tuberculosis is curable and preventable, that it is not a stigma, and that facilities for diagnosis and treatment must be liberally provided. Today practically every avenue of reaching the attention of the masses is used.

"Each year tuberculosis associations select a certain theme to emphasize during the year. This year the slogan is 'Fight Tuberculosis with Modern Weapons.' The two objectives aimed for are (a) to train people of the early symptoms of tuberculosis and the importance of consulting the doctor on their appearance, (b) to arouse interest in the routine search for early tuberculosis before there are symptoms and physical signs.

"To achieve the former, booklets, articles and outlines for talks have been prepared calling attention to the four most common symptoms of early tuberculosis (as determined by surveys of large numbers of sanatorium patients); namely, fatigue, loss of weight, cough that hangs on, and indigestion. The second objective sought is to encourage routine search for symptoms of tuberculosis among groups of young people such as high school and college students.

"Tuberculosis sanatorium statistics indicate that the ratio of 'early cases' admitted has not increased appreciably during the past ten years. Many conscientious doctors, constantly on the alert for tuberculosis have deplored of increasing their batting average of discovering the disease in its incipency. The reason for that failure cannot be blamed entirely on the spathy of patients nor on the lack of vigilance of doctors. It is to be accounted for in part by the fact that the transition from 'early' or 'silent' tuberculosis to the moderately advanced stage is usually a relatively swift one and only by the barest chance is the minimal case detected. So long as we are obliged to wait until symptoms betraying pulmonary damage drive the patient to our offices, we shall probably continue to despair.

"Vestling with this deplorable state of affairs, efforts have been made to devise some way of detecting tuberculosis in its silent stage. Among apparently healthy people, Doctors Chadwick, Rathbun, Myers and others pioneered in introducing the scheme of examining routinely, with tuberculin and the X-ray, students in colleges and high schools. The routine examination of all students brings to light early cases that might otherwise be undetected and progress to disabling disease. Last year all students of a large state university were examined by the tuberculin-X-ray method and 17 cases of adult type pulmonary tuberculosis, all asymptomatic, were found. Contrast this with the usual method of 'passive' case finding, i. e. waiting for persons to apply to the doctor for the relief of symptoms. During the course of the same year 15 cases of tuberculosis had been discovered among students who came to the doctor because of one or another symptom. Twelve of the 15 were advanced cases and were obliged to leave school.

"In high schools the story is substantially the same except that fewer cases of adult type tuberculosis are found. However, follow-up work of adolescent children with significant childhood type lesions leads the investigators into many homes where there is an open case. This is important, for the real threat to the youngster is probably not the calculated remains of a primary complex, but daily contact with a source of infection. No wonder proponents of the routine tuberculin-X-ray plan emphasize the value of locating such sources of infection.

"It is noted that ultimately parents will depend upon the family doctor to examine their children as a matter of course with tuberculin and the X-ray when indicated.

The Wightman Cup has been won by the United States 9 times, by Great Britain 4 times. Great Britain has lost the last five matches and the prospect is none too bright for her again this year. For America, who won on the last two occasions without Mrs. Wills Moody, will now be playing with her.

Picks Best Spinach Varieties for State

Geneva, N. Y., April 23.—Spinach may be "just spinach" to most folks, but to those who make a study of such things there are very distinct differences between varieties of this vitamin-bearing crop which make some sorts better suited to a particular purpose than other kinds. Evidence of these differences is presented in an article in the April number of "Farm Research," a quarterly magazine published by the State Experiment Station here. The article was prepared by Prof. W. D. Enzie, vegetable crops specialist at the station, and reports findings of variety tests of spring- and fall-planted spinach made in cooperation with the College of Agriculture on muck soils.

Market gardeners and those who grow spinach for the canning factory have a choice of some twenty distinct varieties of spinach, most of which developed in Europe and have been introduced into this country, explains Prof. Enzie. In fact spinach is of Old World origin with a history that goes back as far as 1351 when records show that it was used by the monks on fast days, he says. No one knows just when it was first introduced into America, but spinach was first listed in American seed catalogues in 1806.

Classified in Various Ways
All spinach varieties fall into one of two groups, those having smooth seeds and those having prickly seeds, says Prof. Enzie. The smooth-seeded varieties can be further divided into sorts having smooth leaves and those having wrinkled leaves, whereas all of the prickly-seeded varieties are also smooth leaved. All spinach varieties can be classified roughly, too, as long standing or not long standing, depending upon whether or not they produce seed stalks readily.

The variety trials included 12 well-known varieties in both spring and fall tests. In the spring tests the best varieties for canning proved to be Nobel, Hollandia, Broad Flanders, Prickly Winter, and Viriditas. The best market garden varieties in this test included Old Dominion, Victoria, Long Standing Bloomsdale, Princess Juliana, Virginia Savor, King of Denmark, and Esquimaux. Using 11 of the same varieties together with the new variety Viking in fall tests, the best six in order of yield on muck were Virginia Savor, Nobel, Prickly Winter, Viking, Viriditas and Broad Flanders.

LOOK, GRANDMA—THE WASH ISN'T NEARLY AS WHITE AS I EXPECTED. MAYBE I'M NOT USING THE RIGHT SOAP. THE SUDS SEEM SO FLAT.

BETTER CALL UP THE MAN WHO SOLD YOU THE WASHER. HE OUGHT TO KNOW WHAT SOAP TO USE.

WHAT'S THAT YOU SAY? I SHOULD USE RINSO? IT GIVES RICHER SUDS THAT GET CLOTHES 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER? ALL RIGHT—I'LL TRY IT NOW—

LATER...AFTER TRYING RINSO

THERE! JUST SEE HOW MUCH WHITER THIS BATCH OF CLOTHES IS—THANKS TO RINSO'S LIVELY SUDS.

LANDS SAKES! WHAT A DIFFERENCE RINSO MAKES. I WISH I HAD SOAP LIKE THAT WHEN I DID MY OWN WASHING.

Millions use these richer suds to soak clothes whiter

WHEN the makers of 35 washers recommended Rinso—you can be sure there's a reason.

In tub or washer, Rinso washes clothes the whitest, brightest you ever saw. And how does it do, soapy suds are work for women without washers! The way they melt out dirt and get the weekly wash spotlessly clean without hard scrubbing or boiling is a joy to see. Clothes last 2 or 3 times longer this "no-scrub" way.

Rinso gives extra-rich, lively suds—even in hard water. No hot soaps, chips or powders needed. You'll like Rinso for dishes and all household cleaning. Gets rid of every bit of grease, leaves no greasy film on dishes. Easy on hands. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

S. G. Quilty Gives Recital in Boston

Stephen Glenn Quilty, Kingston born composer and pianist, will close his 1936 concert season with a recital of the works of master musicians and his own pieces at Boston's exclusive Copley Society on May 8. Assisting him will be Helja Tanya, Polish opera singer, now singing in this country under the guiding hand of Mme. Shari de Lys, noted vocal teacher, who will play her accompaniments. Patrons, headed by Dean Frederick S. Converse of the New England Conservatory (with whom Mr. Quilty studied as a protégé under special award) include many Bostonians prominent in musical, social, literary and artistic circles. The program will include piano works of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Liszt and Scriabin as well as Quilty's new work, "The Golden Poem," for piano and other of his compositions which are better known. Quilty left here in 1927 for Boston where he quickly gained recognition and has attained much popularity as recitalist and composer. During the past season he gave many concerts in and around Boston. Several of these were given at Women's Clubs, some at the Copley Society, the British Poetry Society and others. He also gave a recital series over the radio and made several personal appearances playing classical music with the Fuller Marionettes. In March the Somerville Teachers Association engaged the young pianist for a concert and he was also guest of honor at a banquet in Boston's newly opened Copley Square Hotel when he played for the Bachelors Society in February. During this same month the Federation of Music Clubs gave a tea in Boston to honor Quilty and another American composer, Berenice Dyer—at this event both musicians played their latest works to a large throng of music lovers. Mr. Quilty has made a specialty of combining music with other arts such as poetry; he has played at art exhibits, with colored slides to music, with lecturers, with marionettes and recently with dancers and actors. His first composition was published before he was 21 and others are being arranged for publication. For some years the young man studied pipe organ under the celebrated organist and musicologist, Professor Arthur Hilton Ryder, then composition with Converse and others, at the same time keeping up his work of concert pianist. He is best known for his interpretations of the works of Beethoven, who is his favorite composer. While living in Kingston he was a pupil of Miss Lina Schmidtkonz.

Midsummer has always been regarded as a magic time, a season for bonfires, feasting and dancing, and the performance of strange rites connected with the harvest, love and marriage. Ancient writers agree that the three principal features of the festival were the bonfires, processions with torches round the fields, and the rolling of lighted cart-wheels down the hill sides. These customs prevailed not only in England but throughout the whole of Europe, from Ireland to Russia and Scandinavia to Spain.

Upward Swing in Exports Is Reported

Washington, April 22 (AP)—An upward swing in American exports of a wide range of products during 1935 was reported today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

An analysis by the chamber's foreign commerce section said the "continued, though not spectacular" improvement was "coincident with general recovery and increased purchasing power in many parts of the world."

Topping the list of products for which increased world demand was reported were cotton, automobiles, machinery and petroleum products. "Our export trade was still hampered by quotas, exchange controls, and other import restrictions," the review said. "In some nations these and other efforts to build up self-sufficiency, particularly in products of the soil, limited our trade."

"Our government's reciprocal trade agreements policy, however, has been removing some of these restrictions," the report added.

Measured by value, 58 per cent of 100 leading exports showed increases over 1934, and 58 per cent gained over the five-year average, 1929-34.

Measured by quantity, 62 per cent of 167 chief exports gained over the previous year and 59 per cent were larger than the five-year average.

Unmanufactured cotton exports, the review said, "made a strong comeback" in the second half of 1935 although the year's total was below the five-year average.

"Eleven per cent of all the passenger automobiles produced in this country in 1935, and 24 per cent of our motor truck and bus production were exported, concrete evidence of the importance of foreign trade to the automotive industry," the analysis said.

The export of 173,681 passenger cars was described as higher than for any year since 1929, and 18.7 per cent higher than in 1934. Trucks and busses exported totaled 99,080 units, also the high mark since 1929.

May Morning Breakfast

One of my college memories is the May Morning Breakfast, an annual money-making Y. W. C. A. event held on the Saturday morning nearest to May first. A good simple breakfast was served from 7:30 until 9 a. m. and friends and students attended in such numbers that the occasion was always a financial success. The idea can be used for any type of school or church organization when special money is required. Serve good food in attractive manner, either at small tables, long tables or cafeteria style. We served at daintily appointed tables seating eight. Girls in Spring wash dresses—and gayly colored aprons did the serving.

Townsend Hearings

Los Angeles, April 22 (AP)—Public hearings on affairs of the Townsend Old Age Pension Organization will be held here Monday and Tuesday. Rep. Joseph A. Gavagan (D-N. Y.), a member of the investigating committee, repeated his prediction of "startling revelations." He said "the reluctance of certain witnesses whom we called on for voluntary statements of conditions that they knew existed in the Townsend Organization," required "subpoenas and enforced testimony."

General Coxe, Now 81, Still Seeks Office

By J. H. COLBURN

Columbus, O. (AP)—High-collared, gray-haired "General" Jacob S. Coxe, still marches to the political path.

This time he is the presidential candidate of the farmer-labor party, and, although he decided against entering Ohio's primary May 12, he has obtained information relative to making the race in November.

"General" Coxe, who attracted attention 42 years ago by leading an "army" of unemployed on Washington, declined to participate in Ohio's primary on the ground it was a "farce". He was named a presidential nominee at a farmer-labor convention in Omaha last July.

Cited History

The veteran campaigner for "money-at-cost" said the Ohio primary decision was prompted by the fact that although he polled the highest preferential vote—75,844—in the primary four years ago, Republican convention leaders refused to recognize him.

Ohio's preferential balloting provides only a popularity test as the result is not binding on convention delegates.

Coxe, former mayor of Maletailon, O., and now a resident of Jackson, Mich., has actively supported the Townsend plan of $200 a month pensions for all over 60 years old.

Holds Unorthodox Views

"General Coxe"—he got the title on the historic march to the capital—has long advocated unorthodox economic views.

Beginning life as a mill worker and engineer, the wrinkled 81-year-old perennial candidate for public office went into the scrap iron business and later purchased a silica sand quarry which made him prosperous.

Among Coxe's financial schemes was one to provide legal tender money without interest.

NEW GIFTS TO HEMSTREET MEMORIAL MUSIC LIBRARY

The Lillian Miller Hemstreet Memorial Library of Music at the Kingston City Library, received today, a very valuable additional gift from Frank Hemstreet when he added to the library, beautifully bound scores of "Madam Butterfly" by Puccini, "Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo, "Samson" by Handel, and a fine collection of Russian songs.

Mr. Hemstreet is also making a gift of a copy from "Who Is Who in Music", which was found recently at the Albany Library. The copy will be framed and added to the Kingston Library for future reference.

The editor in chief of Who Is Who in Music of the date of 1929 was Dr. Edmund Spaeth, and the associate editors were George Garton, Lawrence Gilman, Glenn Dillard Gunn, W. J. Henderson, Leonard Liebling, Maurice Rosenfeld and Cyril Arthur Player.

The text of the paragraphs is as follows:

Frank Hemstreet—Teacher of singing, New York. Born in Cleveland, Ohio. Studied under Coe Stewart, Cleveland; Janotta, Chicago, in 1887; later with Oscar Saan-ser, Emilio Agramonte and Karl Brenneman. Has been teaching voice since 1899; also appeared in concert and as church soloist for 35 years. Member New York Singing Teachers' Association as treasurer; Mendelssohn Glee Club, organizer and director of The Hemstreet Singers and on Board of Directors of the Musicians' Club, New York city. Address 50 West 67th street, New York city.

Lillian Miller Hemstreet—vocalist, teacher, New York. Born Washington State. Received degree of Mus.B. from King Conservatory of Music in San Jose, Cal. Also studied under private teachers. Taught at King Conservatory, 1898-1899. Has written numerous songs and piano compositions. Member of New York Singing Teachers' Association; Musicians' Club of New York; MacDowell Club and charter member of Guild of Vocal Teachers. Address, 50 West 67th street, New York.

The total value of farm live stock on Canadian farms in 1935 amounted to $485,328,000, an increase of 18 per cent over 1934. Farm poultry had a value of $40,392,000 compared with $35,392,000 in 1934.

Elkdale Boy Found Dead of Exposure

Salamanca, N. Y., April 20 (AP)—Grieving parents made plans today for the funeral of Thomas Woodworth, two year old Elkdale boy who wandered from home last Monday and perished of fright and exposure less than a mile away.

Floyd L. Perkins, engineer, sighted the child's body late yesterday as he piloted his train toward Elkdale. It lay at the foot of an embankment in an open space near the tracks, just outside a half mile circle which had been thoroughly beaten for two days and two nights by a search party of 200.

Tommy and his pet dog were last seen alive Monday afternoon on the bridge over Little Valley Creek. The boy's uncle said he told the boy to go home and then drove on.

Later the dog, howling dismally, returned alone and Tommy's mother, Mrs. Leroy Woodworth, sent out an alarm.

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 23—John Moore of High Falls called on some of his former neighbors in the west end recently.

Leonard F. Ruckert, local grocer and meat dealer, has invested in a new delivery truck.

Occasional showers in this section Tuesday helped to give the grass a good start while further delaying spring plowing on low ground.

Mrs. Frank Hyatt of West New York and Mrs. Earl Osterhoudt of Palenville called on their sister, Mrs. Fred Adsit, Saturday.

The next meeting of the Shokan Home Bureau will take place at the residence of Mrs. C. Herman Weidner on Tuesday, April 22. The first session of the course on landscaping will be taken up at this meeting.

Nicholas and Eugene Sentimilovsky have been getting out a quantity of stone wood on their place, both for home use and market purposes. Much of the wood was sycamore, locally known as "buttonball," which is not often seen on the wood pile these days.

Homer Markle has purchased a large oil-burning brooder of modern type for use in connection with his turkey raising business at Twin Trees.

White birch, hemlock and other trees have been set out in the small park adjoining the corner store and restaurant, thus adding a touch of beauty to the village center.

Several young women plan to attend the Eastern Star party in Kingston this evening.

Robert Adsit has been absent from his classes at the district No. 4 school for a few days on account of an injured arm. Rob. while doing some fancy trick riding on a nearby farmer's calf, fell off his steed and spread the cartilage of one elbow.

Baptiste Nadal, whose mountain farm is the old John Weeks place, has purchased an electric brooder for his poultry department.

A wedding of April 21, 1860, was that which united Uriah North of Olive to Mrs. Charlotte Fuller of Hurley. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home in the village of Olive by Elder Jacob Winchell of the Old School Baptist Church.

Lyle Wager, who recently removed to Mt. Tremper, was a caller in the village Sunday.

Local boarding house keepers are receiving inquiries about rates and accommodations from prospective summer patrons.

A Dibble, well known Saugerties florist, was numbered among the many fishermen seen on local streets over the week-end.

One of the tools sold at the Bedell auction Saturday was a "devil-dog," or heavy splitting axe shaped like a steel wedge, bid in by Louis Thell. The implement is not commonly used in these parts.

Burtis Wheat, who is working in New York, spent the week-end with his family here.

Sylvester Wells, head farmer at the Oakes place, is numbered among the village residents who have gone in for baby chicks this spring.

More milk trucks are passing through the village than formerly. Report has it that the trucks have been detouring by way of Woodstock on account of the slide in Route 23 at Mt. Tremper.

Mrs. Elwyn Winchell has received a letter from her brother, John Davis, who left Shokan as a young man and during recent years has resided in Idaho. Mr. Davis, now 76 years old, is not in the best of health this spring.

Robert Bloom, a former Shokan boy who for many years has made his home in Newburgh, recently included Staunton, Va., in a motor trip and called at the military academy which he attended 25 years ago. Many changes have been made at Staunton, including the addition of several large buildings, according to Mr. Bloom who is the son of Mrs. Jessie Bloom of Walkhill.

James Rutherford, enterprising farmer of the Tonche neighborhood, has exchanged his old team of horses for a new pair of more valuable animals. Mr. Rutherford made his horse deal at Hobart, Delaware county.

It is reported that work on the town roads of the First Olive district will be started within a few days.

The late Thomas Spencer, who caught the granddaddy of all Ashokan big trout as told about in The Freeman recently, is missed in fishing circles this year. Few fishermen equalled Mr. Spencer's success with the trout, whether in reservoir or streams, and he had several proteges who were glad to accompany the "old master" on his trips. Two years ago Mr. Spencer and Emil Brunell journeyed to Hyde Park and presented a fine mess of trout to President Roosevelt.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—March employment placements in private industry increased 51.5 per cent over a year ago, while governmental service and public works placements declined 59.4 per cent, State Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews' monthly report said today. Andrews added that these figures are not a complete measure of the state's business conditions.

"Public employment offices," he explained, "can base their reports only on that portion of employers and unemployed of the state who wish to make use of their facilities."

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—New York club women heard from Robert Hoppeck, assistant director of the National Occupational Conference, a report today that opportunity knocks in what he defined as the field of "professional murder."

Hoppeck said that "the opportunities for young men willing to cut each other up in the name of patriotism for the benefit of the steel makers and the glorification of the dear old D. A. R., are increasing by leaps and bounds in every country."

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Tax Commissioner Mark Graves reported today that the state's revenue from the four cents a gallon gasoline tax was $4,039,510 in January an increase of $1,078,347 over a year ago. He said the increase was due largely to the additional one-cent levy enacted by the 1935 legislature.

Pittsford, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Lawrence T. Peck, member of a jury that convicted David Adams, Pennfield father of 11 motherless children, paid Adams' $20 fine on a phony poaching charge. Justice of the Peace George M. Girk was about to send Adams, who was unable to pay the fine to the penitentiary. The defendant said he would repay Peck.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Charles E. Wilcox, vegetable dealer whose body was found in a city dump, died of natural causes. Medical Examiner Howard P. Carpenter said after an examination. Two men arrested during the investigation, John O'Hearn and Osborne Myers, were sentenced to six months in jail on their pleas of guilty of outraging public decency. District Attorney John E. Schwartz said the pair told him they found Wilcox lying in the street and drove him around in their automobile several hours before leaving him at the dump.

Almond, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Enrappers at the CCC Camp here pressed forward today with a program of planting 1,800,000 trees raised from seed in the camp's experimental nursery. The state conservation department said it believed the Almond camp was the only CCC unit in the country to plant trees grown from the seed stage by its members.

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Mark Graves, state tax commissioner, said today a retroactive state tax of $1 a gallon would be collected on liquor brought back from foreign ports by tourists. Federal law allows tourists to bring in liquor duty free up to the customary $100 exemption.

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—George Arnone, of the Bronx, assumed office today as president of the New York State Association of Master Plumbers. Other officers elected yesterday are Frank R. Roth of the Bronx, secretary, and Charles H. Mentelinger of Brooklyn, treasurer.

FORT LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN TO DEFEAT HOFFMAN

Summit, N. J., April 23 (AP)—Franklin W. Fort's campaign against Governor Harold G. Hoffman for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention was officially under way today, following an attack on the governor for his activities in behalf of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The former representative, now manager for Herbert Hoover at the 1928 convention, charged Governor Hoffman with himself up as "self-appointed defense counsel" for the Lindbergh baby killer and dragged Jersey justice "through the mire" by his actions.

Great natural beauty of setting combined with the application of modern developments in soil course architecture place the Adirondack National Park among the best in the world.

UNEMPLOYED 'OCCUPY' STATE LEGISLATIVE HALLS

Here is a scene in the New Jersey assembly house at Trenton after an unemployed "army of occupation" marched into the chamber and took possession of legislators' seats in a demonstration to force the legislature to provide relief funds. The demonstrators held a mock session and later served meals at the desks. (Associated Press Photo)

1936 RICHFIELD SAVES $24.48 YEARLY FOR THRIFTY MOTORISTS!

Road Tests with Fords, Plymouths and Chevrolets Prove Savings!

BIG CAR OWNERS SAVE EVEN MORE!

IT'S SIMPLE ARITHMETIC

NEW 1936 RICHFIELD HI-OCTANE
10.391 Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth owners told us that they average 16.2 miles per gallon from other gasolines they've been buying. Yet certified road tests prove that Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline averages better than 21.9 miles per gallon!

RESEARCH in this state reveals that literally thousands of motorists can save $24.48 or more this year on gasoline! The chances are better than ten to one that you're among them!

Prove it Yourself!

Look at the chart at the left. The figures tell the story. $24.48 a year is what Richfield can save for the average small car owner. And the bigger your car—the more gasoline you use—the more you save! Prove it with a "show-down" test in your car. Fill your tank with new 1936 Richfield Hi-Octane—the thrifty, regular-priced fuel for modern motors. Check the mileage, compare it with the mileage you've been getting. And convince yourself that Richfield can save you money day in and day out. Make your test today!

5 BIG REASONS FOR THE BIG SAVINGS

Here are the fuel-saving features that make Richfield Hi-Octane the choice of big departments, taxicab and trucking companies, and other big gasoline users.

1. Richfield Hi-Octane contains more potential power per gallon.
2. It was developed especially for modern high-compression motors.
3. Richfield "flashes" faster—saves on every "cold" start.
4. No gasoline at its price has a higher octane (antiknock) rating.
5. Richfield exceeds the U. S. Government specifications for "emergency" fuel!

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Cape silhouette featured for daytime wear.
Liana Merwin

Cape themes in costume fashions for late Spring and early Summer are running jacket ensembles a close race for popularity, and cape and simulated cape effects are featured in great variety by the best houses.

Separate capes accompany chic matching frocks. Some capes are attached at the neckline while other models show the influence with capelet sleeves that cover the elbows. Semi-capes that cover arms but not the back, offer novel variations of the smart cape silhouette.

The 12-gored skirt is another important note of these new ensemble fashions and is illustrated in the smart cape costume sketched above.

This two-piece cape suit of sporty tweed makes an ideal midseason town, travel or country costume and appears in a wide range of favored plain shades, including aqua, blue, beige, green, navy and brown. It is single breasted with two patch pockets and the semi-sleeve cape which does not extend across the back, is press-pleated to match the very wide, press-pleated, 12-gored skirt.

A MARIAN MARTIN AFTERNOON FROCK IN DEMURE AND FESTIVE MOOD

PATTERN 9830

If you want something in the afternoon "line" which combines a demure effect with a dash of spice, you'll find it in this adorable young Marian Martin frock that "Wide Eyed Teens," "Sophisticated Twenties," of their equally smart mothers will want to make as soon as they see it. Yoke and sleeve in one make it simple to cut, and variety may be achieved by either flaring the sleeve or gathering it into a pretty puff. You will like the "uplift" line of the waist yoke and the half-belt which fastens in the back. Select a gayly sprinkled cotton, or voile. For wearing to town a dark shoe is the thing while a more "sporty" effect may be achieved by using a solid color linen, crash or shantung. Complete. Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9830 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coin or stamps (coin preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Sunny days ahead! Now—more than ever—you need our Marian Martin pattern book! Send for it today. Learn how to have a whole warm-weather wardrobe that's fashion-right, money-wise, easy to make. See what magic you can work with special slenderizing designs, clever patterns for little tots, news of the latest fabrics and accessories all clearly pictured. Price of book 15 cents. Book and a pattern together, 25 cents.

Freddie's Earnings Concern His Mother

Los Angeles, April 23 (AP)—Freddie Bartholomew's movie earnings provided a new line of attack today for his mother, Mrs. Lillian Bartholomew, who lost her court fight to regain his custody.

The mother seeks to compel the boy's aunt and guardian, Miss Mylicent Bartholomew, to account for "more than $5,000" she estimates the 12-year-old star has made in two years.

His salary is said to be $1,000 a week.

Cecil Bartholomew, Freddie's father, also was made a defendant as a result. Mrs. Bartholomew's attorney intimated, of his abrupt withdrawal yesterday as his wife's ally in her attempt to regain custody of the child.

Bartholomew's cable and affidavit from England said he was satisfied that Freddie remain in the guardianship of his sister.

Secretary Ickes charges that President Hoover let the needy "starve."

So when the New Dealers came in they sought to remedy this by hiring the farmers not to raise so many hogs and so much wheat.

ROMANCE AND ETIQUETTE

Just by the lifting of a coffee cup Vera is shattering her romance with Tom! Foolish of him to attach so much importance to a small matter? But is it a small matter?

When Vera clutches that cup in a two-handed strangle hold she tells a great deal about herself, and her ignorance of the niceties of life. Then she goes on shocking Tom by packing green peas into a wad of mashed potato on her fork; whacking a whole chop into bits instead of cutting a piece at a time as she eats; buttering a whole slice of bread at once instead of breaking off a bit at a time and buttering it; and cheerfully parking olive pits on the tablecloth beside her plate.

Quite a revelation to a young man who, like most men, hates to be embarrassed by the social slips of the girl he's with. How does he know that she won't acknowledge an inroduction with "Pleased to meet you," or manure her nails in public, talk too loudly, fail to send a bread-and-butter note to the hostess of a week-end party, behave awkwardly at the theatre or in some other way draw the limelight of unpleasant attention on herself—and on him.

No one can afford to have bad manners, to run the risk of social failure through blindness to etiquette, charm, and tact. Our 40-page illustrated booklet is the simplest, handiest of guides to good form. It's such a comfort to be sure of yourself. Why not check up on the rules?

Send 15c for Etiquette for Every Day to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 103 West 19th St., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your Name, Address, and the Name of booklet.

Nature doubtless means well, but often shows poor judgment.

and Summer

If you're wise, you'll get busy and make yourself this newest notion in knits—a shirtmaker frock! It's a semi-dress, semi-sports design which knits up very quickly, and you can memorize its all-over feather-like stitch in no time. So cool and light in linen or Shetland flax!

In pattern 5585 you will find complete instructions for making the dress shown with long or short sleeves in sizes 16-18 and 38-40 (all given in one pattern); an illustration of it and of all the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 253 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

"AND ANOTHER THING, MATILDA... my Daddy insists on real mayonnaise!"

LITTLE Anna May's Daddy can tell in a second the difference between Hellmann's and ordinary dressings! The reason is—Hellmann's is real mayonnaise. It is so much richer and creamier... and so much more full-bodied!

For, you see, Hellmann's is made from the same fine foods you use yourself! Choice salad oils, freshly-broken eggs, a specially selected vinegar, and improved spices. All double-whipped to velvety smoothness.

So, when you select the dressing for your salads, be sure you ask for Hellmann's. It's all mayonnaise. Nothing else! And it costs but a trifle per salad.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Morning mists: Sometimes, there are compensations for getting up in what seems the middle of the night and going down the bay to meet an incoming liner. For instance, the other morning, just enough fog had descended over lower Manhattan to make over the famous skyline into an entirely new picture. Great buildings seemed to be floating in mid-air while the towers of the Woolworth, Singer and other skyscrapers seemed isolated crags in a sea of vapor. Brooklyn bridge was bits of tracery and the Statue of Liberty, a dim hovering figure. Huge ferries seemed to come from nowhere and what looked like moving islands were merely barges pushed by tugs. The description sounds tame since, as a matter of fact, it was something to be seen rather than put into words.

For the working girl: The Society for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor has figured it out that a girl employed in an office must make an annual expenditure of at least $77.75. Some of the things on the list are four dresses at a total cost of $20; three hats, $6; four pairs of shoes, $12; a winter coat to last two years, at $6.25 a year, step-ins, $1.00; slippers, $1.20; and vests, $1. The cost of a working man's clothing is estimated at $38.65 a year and that of a boy, $41 with an outfit of $34.50 for a young girl. A housewife need not spend more than $82.50 a year. But try to convince a lot of them!

Hat grabbing incident: The hat grabber is again becoming conspicuous. He or she is encountered just about everywhere. Many restaurants that in the lean days dispensed with hat grabbers, have again installed them—which is a sign possibly of returning prosperity, since hat checking concessions cost money. Well, the other night, a dapper young gentleman, after retrieving his hat, coat and stick, thrust something into an outstretched paw. The hat grabber promptly let out a yell. Instead of coin, he'd received a raw oyster. By the time he recovered enough to go into action, the dapper young man had vanished.

Travel note: Tourists who return from Caribbean trips find their liquor purchases piled separately from their regular purchases. Presumably, that's for the convenience of the customs gentlemen who have to check to see if the $500 limit has been exceeded. But what I started out to say was that West Indies' tourists can be distinguished from the European kind by their baskets. Few visit the smiling Isles without returning with many samples of native handicraft. Whether they learn to carry them on their heads or not is something that hasn't been ascertained.

An intoxicated young man fell down the concrete steps of the city subway station at Central Park West and One Hundred and Fourth street. Six men rushed to his rescue. He was badly hurt and the station agent telephoned for an ambulance. Just after he had done so, a well-dressed woman came on the scene. She immediately offered to return to her home and telephone. Assured that an ambulance had been called, she waited until it actually arrived and in the meanwhile made this young fellow as comfortable as possible. Hard-hearted New York!

Modern miracles: A friend, who is desirous of remaining anonymous, discovered when he reached his home that he had either lost or had been robbed of his wallet. Having entered a taxi at Broadway and Forty-seventh street, he promptly returned. And lying on the sidewalk, scuffed by many feet, was the wallet which, in addition to valuable papers and identifications, contained $73.

Science Confirms Belief

That Fish Is Brain Food

Chicago.—The tradition that fish food is a boon to mental faculties may not be so far from the truth, according to experiments conducted at Elgin Hospital for the Insane. Certain diets materially affect the mental balance of an individual, it was shown.

Intelligence tests at the end of 12 months showed that those on a diet heavy in vitamin A, B1, B2 and D as well as iron, as found in liver extracts and cod liver oil, had gained the equivalent of 14.15 months of mental age, whereas non-dieters gained only 2.41 months of mental age.

Rescued as Watchdog

Ketchikan, Alaska.—A rooster saved Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Hansen several thousand dollars and perhaps saved their lives. While the family was asleep early one morning, a fire broke out in a downstairs room. The rooster began crowing loudly, waking the family in time to extinguish the fire before it got beyond control.

Tries to Ship Body

in Box as "Shoes"

Mexico City.—Isidro Rincón tried to ship his dead mother home in a box marked "shoes, value $5.00." But express companies discovered the body and had him arrested.

Rincón confessed he wanted to send the body to his native town, Oaxaca, on merchandise "in order to pay less freight."

CONVERTING POOR LAND INTO PARKS

Relief Labor Employed on 110 Different Projects.

Washington.—Unproductive agricultural land is being converted into forests, parks and wild-life refuges by 29,000 men employed by the resettlement administration on development projects.

The administration acquired 7,000,000 acres of poor land from 5,300 farmers to demonstrate the betterment of land that is unsuitable for farming purposes. Relief labor is employed on 110 different projects, located in 40 states, and approximately 2,400 CCC workers are engaged in the development work.

"This development work is essential to a well-rounded land use program," Dr. L. C. Gray, assistant administrator in charge of the program, said. "The positive contribution is made when poor lands are restored to public usefulness by being developed for purposes which the natural characteristics of their soil, topography and climate will permit."

Most of the work now being undertaken in the eastern states is in connection with forest and park development. Fire lanes are being cleared, service roads built and dam sites prepared for park purposes. In certain projects, forest improvement has begun. The poorer trees are being removed from the present forest stands and utilized for lumber or firewood.

In the western plains projects, the areas purchased are to be used for grazing districts. On these areas, present fences and abandoned buildings are being removed, preparatory to building new fences along new boundaries, and erecting dipping vats, corrals and dams to conserve the water supply.

Recreation areas are being created from 44 of the projects of the program. The national park service is co-operating with the resettlement administration in this phase of the plan.

$621,867 Being Held in

Conscience Fund of U. S.

Washington.—Persons who wanted to have an easy mind paid $5,865.00 to the United States treasury last year. By so doing they took a load off their respective chests and raised the value of the national "conscience fund" to $621,867.65. These contributors never give their names.

The "conscience fund," more prosaically known as document 126,420, was started in 1911 when an unknown individual sent $5 to the treasury of President Madison because he felt he had "defrauded the government."

Before the year was over enough money had been contributed by guilty minded persons to bolster the fund to $250 and it was launched into perpetuity.

Although there were no more contributions until 1927, every year since then, with the single exception of 1948, had consciences have increased treasury totals.

The money is set aside as "anonymous contributions" and included in the nation's general fund.

The worst conscience the nation ever had, judging by the year's total must have been 1916 when $54,223.15 was sent in.

Contributions usually are impelled by sudden pangs of conscience and are customarily sent by persons who have used postage stamps a second time, failed to pay duties on articles, evaded income taxes, or stolen government property.

Tree Produces Fruit

Blend of Orange-Lemon

San Diego, Calif.—Instead of mixing orange and lemon juice for drinks in the future, it may be possible to squeeze an orange-lemon blend out of a single fruit if trees perfected by a Chula Vista rancher are adopted commercially.

James M. Ater, nicknamed the "Chula Vista Burbank" for his numerous experiments in plant breeding, has perfected what he calls a "lemon," which he says combines the flavor of the orange and the lemon into a delicious blend.

Ater has gone to the unusual length of patenting his new fruit, and is now considering crossing it with the lime to produce a still more complex product.

Explaining his method, Ater said he obtained wild orange trees and budded them with lemons.

Taking a cue from certain industrial machinery manufacturers, Ater plans to lease his trees rather than sell them if they prove feasible commercially and collect a royalty as well. The new fruit is superior to either the orange or the lemon in keeping properties, Ater said, and will remain in good condition 15 months after being picked.

Boys in Quilting Club

Toledo, Ohio.—Eight boys who box, wrestle and play handball at school have found a new sport—they have joined a quilting club.

Town Stays Out of

Debt for 22 Years

Scranton, Pa.—Something of a record for keeping its financial house in order is claimed by Plymouth township, located between this city and Conshohocken. For 22 continuous years it has been free of debt and indications are that its 1935 budget of $26,326 will be met without strain.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

NOTHING else thus far in the Republican pre-convention campaign has caused more comment than the spectacle of certain friends of Herbert Hoover standing shoulder to shoulder with certain friends of William E. Borah across the pathway of the Landon boom.

For months Mr. Hoover and Mr. Borah have been looked upon by a large section of the public as symbolizing entirely opposite and possibly irreconcilable wings of Republican thought.

Whatever the principals themselves may have been thinking, the impression among some of their followers has gone even farther than that.

The Borah people have supposed that whatever Mr. Hoover did in the campaign would be tinged with a hope that the Borah influence would be, thereby, held in check. Similarly, the Hoover people have felt that whatever Mr. Borah did would be directed largely against a return to the Hoover leadership.

Under these circumstances, it has been taken for granted that in every important party movement, the two would be found on opposite sides of the fence. That is what attracts so much attention to the current situation with respect to Governor Landon.

No Direct Statements

IT SHOULD be borne in mind that neither Mr. Hoover nor Mr. Borah has spoken out directly against Mr. Landon—has made any attack on him, or pronounced him unacceptable as a presidential candidate.

Yet the physical facts, as they have developed in various important sectors, are as much a part of the story as anything which might have been said or left unsaid by either the former president or the senator from Idaho.

Not only have some of the Borah lieutenants openly accused Mr. Landon of being the candidate of certain financial interests, but Mr. Borah himself has pressed his candidacy vigorously in states where that course collided forcibly with plans of the Landon workers.

In his own state of California, Mr. Hoover's political associates have actively opposed a Landon-planned slate of delegates. When it appeared that a three-way primary battle would split the opposition to the Landon slate, Mr. Borah stayed out of California, leaving the field to the Hooverites.

The inside story about these developments is not available. There always is the danger that some of the implications may not be warranted. Yet such facts as do appear speak for themselves.

Consequences Unclear

THE consequences cannot be assessed, of course, until the battle over the nomination has proceeded much farther.

It is quite apparent that the supporters of Mr. Landon are seeking to establish him as the candidate of the west—a section where both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Borah reside. They have not encouraged open declaration for him among the eastern leaders.

Wanting the nomination himself, it is understandable that Mr. Borah should be against any candidate who took an early lead in the number of instructed delegates. The question still unanswered, however, is how far he is prepared to go with his opposition, in the convention itself, if his own candidacy falls.

Mr. Hoover is in a somewhat different position. He has hinted that he is not a candidate, but he never has disavowed a desire to have something to say about the nomination. Some of his friends believe the real key to his position is a long-cherished determination not to let the party fall into the hands of the eastern old-liners, several of whom have volunteered approving word about Governor Landon.

Is it possible that, after all, Mr. Hoover and Borah look upon themselves as much nearer together than the public supposes, bound by the all-important spiritual tie of a common opposition to the old guard and the east?

That hardly seems reasonable, but strange things do happen in politics.

318 Placed in Jobs Here During March

Albany, April 23—A total of 318 persons were placed in jobs by the Clatter County Office of the National Reemployment Service at Kingston, J. B. Carey, NRS manager announced today. Of these placements 17 were in private industry, 1 in governmental service and public works, and 300 in emergency work projects.

According to the report submitted by the National Reemployment Service and the New York State Employment Service for the month of March, the total number of placements made throughout the state by the two services for that month was 32,874. The report made to Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews, showed that 13,048 were jobs in private industry, 1,329 governmental and public posts and 18,497 emergency work project jobs.

The public employment offices are maintained throughout the state by the New York State Employment Service in large urban and industrial centers and by the National Reemployment Service in rural and smaller urban centers. These offices comprise a state wide network giving service to employers and applicants throughout New York. The "Clearance" system enables an office to call on any of the other offices in the event that it is unable to fill a job opening from its own files. Thus the employer in any locality has at his service not only the local office in his area but every one of the offices throughout the state. There is no fee charged to either employer or applicant.

SMITHSONIAN COLLECTS AMERICANA OF FIREMEN

Washington, April 23 (AP)—The Smithsonian Institution—whose exhibits include most things from man to amoeba—today turned its attention to the American fireman.

With a collection of apparatus, uniforms and pictorial accounts, the institution has traced the evolution of the fire-fighter and assembled it in glass cases.

The saga begins with a display of old leather buckets which residents of many early American communities were required to keep on hand. When the fire alarm sounded the citizens were duty bound to fling open their windows and pitch out the buckets.

Racing down the streets, the firemen scooped them up and bore them to whatever was burning. "When the flames were extinguished," says a Smithsonian explanation, "these buckets were piled on the village common where the owners came to claim them." The first official fire helmet, research preclaims, was the shape of the present silk topper but made of leather. The fireman's name, or his sweetheart's, was often painted across the front.

That Jolson kid looks like a comer, all right. Smack, dab, and he smears himself with his first birthday cake—just like any fellow with a taste for the better things of life. Then the little angel takes his ease in the sun. A little more than a year old, the boy was adopted not long ago by Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler and promptly named Al, Jr. One of the features of the famous movie couple's new home in the San Fernando valley, California, is a large nursery for the little charmer.

Twenty-six people formed a branch of the American League and the Rev. H. D. McGrath, who presided, was appointed contact man with the national office. Persons interested should get in touch with him.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dr. H. R. Bibby about the third week in May.

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP).—Senator Ogden J. Ross, Troy Democrat and chairman of the state flood control commission, prepared for introduction in the legislature today a bill providing for New York participation in the federal flood control program.

The legislation is the outgrowth of negotiations between state and federal authorities for joint action to curb damage such as was caused by floods twice within a year in southern and central New York, and conforms with the requirements of a congressional flood control proposal which contains an item authorizing $33,084,000 for flood control work in central and southern New York and northern Pennsylvania.

Senate, Weary, Slashes At Calendar

It is designed to meet objections raised by Governor Lehman last year when he vetoed another measure seeking to accomplish the purpose by legislative action, and will be stressed as a highway safety measure.

The bill which was vetoed last year was re-introduced earlier in the year by Senator Kelly, but has been scrapped in place of the newly drafted proposal.

The governor, in vetoing the old measure, indicated he was doubtful of the constitutionality of the bill and added that "the act clearly contravenes a definite policy which the state has always followed and which it should follow in the future."

Radical Departure.

"The bill is a radical departure from the public policy of the state," the governor said. "The bill now for the first time would require the public school system to provide facilities for private school pupils. In other words, public money are to be used for the benefit of pupils attending private schools."

The sponsors said they feel that the new measure will pass, and declared its approval is necessary "in the interests of safety of those Catholic school children who now are required to walk in the highway to their schools."

Flood Measure.

The Public Pulse

Letters from readers will not be published in this column unless same and address is signed. The Freeman reserves the right to reject any letter considered to be of an offensive nature. Letters should be brief.

Seah—Under Advise

Editor, The Freeman

Dear Sir:

Several weeks ago I wrote you a letter telling about the condition of the Plank road and points north, stating that the highway was in a deplorable condition, scarcely conducive to Ontario-Kingston travel.

Of course I am not interested in going to Ontario. Mainly my plea for a good road is for all of us who live in the nearby Catskill area, who trade in Kingston, who come here either to work or for amusement. In effect, we who spend money in Kingston.

Shortly after my letter appeared I was asked please to hush, since some organization, a Junior Chamber of Commerce, or something was taking the matter under advisement. Well, I've hushed myself long enough. If they've taken the matter under advisement, I can't see that they've done a hell of a lot about it. Hush tactics are usually followed when politicians have a finger in the pudding.

Well, we folk who travel that road are as disgusted as ever. It is ridiculous, those patches the road gangs are putting in the frost holes. They do nothing but add to the washboard quality of the road at best.

But, dear! Maybe the juniors really have got something up their sleeves after all. Yeah, but it won't do any good, ten to one.

Sincerely,

SAME COUNTY RESIDENT

LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE FLOURISHES

March of Progress Leaves Them Practically Untouched.

Chicago.—The little red school house with its curriculum of the "three R's," but little changed by the march of progress, still flourishes in rural America.

A study of rural education made by Prof. Whit Brown of the school of education of Northwestern University in cooperation with the W. K. Kellogg Foundation reveals that teaching methods of 40 years ago still exist in a large number of country schools today.

Modern educational techniques have not pervaded rural areas, according to Professor Brown who found that in some country schools the children were utilizing the same reading used by their grandfathers.

Provision for hot lunches is one of the few worthwhile innovations made by some schools, according to the survey. These schools have installed small grills whereby warm food and hot drinks are provided.

The typical country school, according to the report, consists of a large square room, lighted by windows. Only in rare cases are electric lights provided. Equipment consists of rows of desks screwed to the floor, a teacher's desk, a heating unit, a small case of text books and in rare instances, a dictionary. In this setting the teacher conducts classes for the entire student body.

A study of 85 rural schools in one county showed that the average number of grades taught by one teacher is 6.4 and that the average number of pupils is 21.6. The school day is divided into 23 class divisions with recitations of 15 to 20 minutes each.

The subject matter remains much the same as years ago. Reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling constitute the major portion of the curriculum. Geography, history and civics are to be found only in the upper grades.

Recommendations for bettering the educational setup in rural schools made by Professor Brown are: First, classrooms should be made attractive places for children to live and work in; second, the concept that education is a series of brief unrelated units should be changed, and third, there must be a growing acceptance of the belief that education is futile unless it produces some change in the student's manner of living.

One Out of 16 Youths

Pass Test for Marines

Kansas City, Mo.—An average of only one out of every 16 youths applying for admission in the United States marine corps is able to pass physical examinations, according to Commander George A. Riker, medical attaché at the recruiting office of the corps.

Only 61 of 800 applicants have been accepted since the local office was opened last November.

Commander Riker said a farm boy has better chances of gaining entrance than former high-school athletes. "The average athlete too often has some physical defect that makes us reject him."

In explaining some requirements for entrance Riker said a recruit must weigh at least 128 pounds and be 5 feet 6 inches tall.

Height is essential for long legs and marching. Also, short men find difficulty handling a rifle and they seem out of place during inspections.

Men with pigeon-toes, knockknees or bowlegs are not acceptable because this is an indication of bone structure weakness.

Commander Riker said defective teeth is the major reason most youths prove unfit. Defective eyesight and high blood pressure rate next.

Cow Torturer Is Facing

Slow Death on Gallows

Vienna.—The possibility of having his neck broken by a hangman as punishment for torturing cows faces Franz Sommer, thirty-eight-year-old Swiss laborer.

He is charged with twisting the tails of 15 cows until bones were broken. Whether Sommer is adjudged guilty and sentenced to the gallows depends on the extent of damage fixed. Under the law, if damages exceed 250 shillings ($47.50) the guilty person may be hanged.

Should Sommer receive the heaviest penalty he would be executed by being suspended a few feet in the air, with his neck being broken by a combination of twists and jerks on the rope.

Victoria Still Used

Toronto.—The Misses Mortimer and Elsie Clark, daughters of the late Sir William M. Clark, one-time lieutenant governor of Ontario, still use a horse-drawn victoria to travel about the city. There is the only horse-drawn carriage still in daily use here.

Remove Woman's Ribs

as Her Heart Grows

Kansas City, Mo.—Mary Erwin is in the hospital for the sixth time in three years for a heart treatment. Doctors said her heart was three times the normal size and still growing. Mary is sixteen years old.

A few ribs were removed last year to make room for the enlarged organ. She is given treatment through administration of digitalis, which tones up the heart and slows the beat. She has refused each of three rib treatments.

Speeders' Club Has Two New Members

Robert R. Davis of Albany and Joseph Fadoul of Catherine street, both arrested for speeding over 40 miles an hour on the new East Chester street by-pass, were fined $5 each in police court today by Judge Colton, and as a result both men became full fledged members of the Speeders' Club.

Alex Waruch of Kerhonkson, arrested early this morning for driving to the left of the traffic standard at Albany avenue and Broadway, was fined $2.

Frank Day of Albany, arrested for panhandling on Broadway last evening, was given an opportunity to leave town within the hour, or serve 10 days in jail. He left.

The next war may not be one of end war, but it will certainly succeed in ending peace.

WPA Approves Three Street Projects Here

City Engineer James Norton received a communication from the WPA at Albany today that the projects to rebuild Abel street, West O'Reilly street and Staples street, have been approved.

The Abel street project is to rebuild that street from Broadway to Wurts street. At the present time this part of Abel street is filled with ruts and is in very bad condition. There is heavy traffic over the street and it is expected that the local WPA will start the work of reconstruction shortly.

On West O'Reilly street a new storm water sewer has been laid and also a new water main. This street is to be rebuilt.

On Staples street the WPA has laid a new water main, and this street also will be rebuilt.

Lunacy Plea For Fiorenza is Planned

New York, April 23 (AP)—Counsel for John Fiorenza, 24-year-old confessed slaver of Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton, labored today on plans to save him from conviction of first degree murder and the electric chair.

Attorney Henry Klauber indicated he would demand appointment of a lunacy commission.

District Attorney William C. Dodge, planning to take the case to the grand jury either today or tomorrow said, however:

"I am satisfied Fiorenza is perfectly normal and knew what he was doing. I have a perfect airtight case if there ever was one."

Fiorenza admitted in homicide court yesterday that he had confessed he assaulted and strangled Mrs. Titterton in her apartment on April 10.

Nazi Arms Fetes Spur on Frenchmen

Paris, April 23 (AP)—Military demonstrations in Nazi Germany spurred the French government today to arm the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact with definite military plans, in fear that Adolf Hitler was "preparing to strike eastward."

Foreign Minister Pierre-Edouard Flandin and Russian Ambassador Vladimir Potemkin conferred to make final arrangements for conferences next week between the Russian and French general staffs to map out a closely-coordinated Franco-Soviet war plan against Germany in event of a Nazi attack on either nation.

The ratification of the mutual assistance pact by France, Hitler asserted, had influenced the Reich to proceed with remilitarization of the Rhineland zone, in violation of the Locarno pact and Versailles treaty.

Informants reported the French government had asked Great Britain to make a firm statement on what her policy would be in event of Nazi aggression into Austria or Czechoslovakia.

Officials said the French government would answer in the affirmative to the request by Turkey for permission to fortify the Straits of Dardanelles.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonard's prescription—HEM-RID—to relieve hemorrhoids, itching or protruding piles. This internal medicine acts quickly even in old stubborn cases. HEM-RID succeeds because it helps to heal and restore the affected parts and relieves blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this. That's why salves and ointments often fail. McBride Drug Stores and all drug stores say one bottle of HEM-RID Tablets will relieve you of your pile misery or money back—Adv.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. JACOB

New York, April 23 (AP)—Stocks slumped 1 to as much as 6 points today in a selling drive that hit most of the leaders.

Rails, steels, motors and specialties led the reversal. The ticker tape got behind floor transactions for awhile. Then the activity dwindled, but there were few rallying tendencies displayed near the approach of the final hour.

Cloudiness of the French financial situation was blamed in some quarters for the relapse.

Case and Union Pacific fell about 8 points each. Others, down 2 to 4, included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Deere, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, American Can, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union and Amoco. Some resistance was shown by the rubbers, oils and utilities.

The late tone was weak. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Springfield, Mass., April 23 (AP)—A Chicago farmer, Red Cross official said today, in an appeal for funds to build a pizzeria to house 12 men which had been swept down stream in the flood and recovered. "We asked how he had identified the man. 'Why, I know every one of my men by their faces,' he replied. He got the money for the pizzeria."

Rosendale Township
Opens Campaign for Summer Business

Rosendale, one of Ulster county's liveliest little communities, bidding for the summer business of vacationists, will make its drive presently with the circulation of 6,000 booklets, with 32 pages of descriptive matter on Rosendale as a vacation resort.

Joseph O'Connor of Bloomingville, publicity man for the Rosendale Township Association, plans on flooding the Metropolitan area with the vacation booklets as soon as they are off the presses of The Freeman Job Department. Last year, O'Connor supervised a wide distribution of the booklets, which helped immensely in attracting summer visitors to Rosendale.

The booklets fully describe and depict what one may enjoy on a vacation in Rosendale township. The association, aside from the booklet as a means of informing vacationists about the township, has an information booth on a suitable spot on the new road in Tilton. It is being furnished with office equipment. During the summer a secretary will be supplied to furnish passing motorists with information they desire.

At the meeting this week a number of matters were discussed. Mrs. Hiltbrandt urged every member to cooperate in the clean-up week campaign, beginning May 4. E. M. Huben, chairman of the membership committee, reported the drive for new members would remain open until the June meeting. Application to the State Conservation Department was sanctioned, asking that 150 trees be planted on the state-owned land in LeFever Park.

Edward Brodsky of Maple Hill reported on the action taken by the township board and the association on flood control. He read a resolution which was directed to Mr. O. J. Rose, chairman of the Flood Control Commission. Since the reading of this resolution, the Rosendale Township Association, represented by E. M. Huben and President E. P. Demarest, presented it and other resolutions to the flood control hearing at Allentown Tuesday.

Jerome Aquisto, who operates the recently established shoe rebuilding shop in Rosendale, appealed to the merchants of the town to initiate a better business drive. He said that although the association was designed to help all business men in the town, the merchants have been sadly dormant and have not taken advantage of boarding house and hotel cooperation.

The meeting closed with a program of entertainment directed by Harry Mollenhauer. A series of popular songs was sung by the assembly accompanied by Floyd Dietrich and his accordion. Mrs. H. Mollenhauer and H. Kramer of Tilton, presented a one act play. Paul Schiller of Tilton, sang a group of German ballads. The program closed with a game of dart baseball.

A special meeting of the board of directors and publicity committee of the Rosendale Township Association will be held at Ed. Huben's residence, this Friday evening.

THE AMERICAN HOMES
CONFERENCE AT ALBANY

The New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, which held a conference on "The American Home," at Albany on Wednesday, at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel, provided a rare opportunity for the Federation women of the state who attended the conference, which included luncheon as there were morning and afternoon sessions.

A delegation of some 27 women of the Kingston Federation, mostly members of the "American Homes" committee of the Kingston Federation, Mrs. O. D. D. Ingalls, chairman, with Mrs. Fred P. Luther, president of the Kingston Federation and the county chairman of the "American Homes" and the District Director, Mrs. Van Wagenen, attended the conference. Reports brought back were indeed glowing, the consensus of opinion being that it had been, for once, a perfect day.

Among the many illuminating addresses those of the State President, Mrs. Smith, and of the past president, Mrs. Poole and Mrs. Sporens, and that of Miss Lena Madison Phillips were outstanding.

FINE AMPHON GLEE CLUB
CONCERT AT NEWBURGH

The Kingstonians who attended the annual concert of the Amphon Glee Club of Newburgh at the Broadway school last evening, were enthusiastic in their comments on the beauty of the entire program given by the club under the conducting of Robert Williams.

The guest artist of the evening was Alma Milstead, soprano, whose lovely, fresh young soprano voice and musicality captivated her audience. Miss Milstead will have one of the solo parts in the opera, "The Blue Forest," which will be given under the patronage of The Prima Society at our high school on April 26th.

One very unusual and beautiful number of the program was "Adagio Cantabile," arranged by Bartholomew for violin solo with obbligato for men's voices, the melody being taken from a Violin Sonata by Giuseppe Verdi. Robert A. Townsend of Newburgh was the violinist.

The Kingston unit of the Home Bureau held a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Margaret Barstead, 1455 Broadway avenue, Tuesday at 12:20, at which 16 members and two guests including prominent business men were present. After the luncheon games and cards were enjoyed. Plans were made for all members to attend the summer district Federation at Troy, May 6 and 7.

Gonzalez Robbery
Case Opened Today

Wednesday afternoon the jury box was filled for the Gonzalez robbery trial and at the opening of county court this morning the case was opened by Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver for the prosecution. Francis T. Murray later opened the case for the defendants. Prudencio and Jose Gonzalez, who are charged with robbery, first degree, alleged to have been committed on October 12, 1931, at Kerhonkson. The specific charge under which the two Spanish boys are brought to trial is the robbery of Emilio Rodriguez who conducted a labor camp in the village of Kerhonkson at the time of the construction of the Minnewaska Trail over the mountain.

Delay in handing up an indictment was due to the fact that after the robbery, which was done in true highwayman fashion, the robbers were not apprehended for a period of nearly four years when the two Gonzalez boys were apprehended in West Virginia and brought back for trial.

On the morning of October 12, 1931, at about 4 or 4:30 o'clock in the morning when the Spanish boarding house was just stirring for the day, five armed bandits entered the place and in real highwayman fashion lined the occupants up against the wall, face toward the wall, and while their leader mounted a table in the dining room of the commissary camp and covered the men in the room, the other armed men went through the house and aroused the sleeping men and compelled them to come downstairs where they were robbed as they reached the first floor. After the entire camp had been gone through and $1,500 had been taken from the proprietor of the camp, the men were herded into the cellar by the bandits, the door was closed and they were told not to make any outcry unless they desired a bullet through their bodies.

With that warning the bandits picked up their spoils and departed. The camp operated by Rodriguez was located in Kerhonkson and at the time there were 35 or 40 men boarding there. In connection with his boarding house he also operated a commissary which made it necessary for him to have large sums of money about the place.

The defendants deny any connection with the robbery and allege that they were elsewhere at the time. Their defense is a general denial and an allegation by alibi that they were not at Kerhonkson or near there on the date of the robbery.

The question for the jury to decide is one of identification of the two boys. Several of the workmen at the place, all Spaniards, claim they had a good view of Red Rublo. They claim he was the leader of the gang and was referred to by the other men as "chief." Jose Gonzalez it is alleged was also a member of the gang.

Taking of testimony was slow because of the necessity of having an interpreter act. Many of the witnesses cannot speak or understand English. Silveio Suarez was sworn as interpreter.

The first witness was Joaquin Quintanilla, one of the victims. He testified that on October 10, 1931, he was ill and did not go to work and that day he saw Red Rublo or Prudencio Gonzalez come to a house next the boarding house and stand there looking at the Rodriguez boarding house for a time. Later the witness said Rublo came over and inquired of the cook whether they ever played poker at the boarding house and the cook replied no. The witness said he was sure of the identity of the man and came down from the witness box and placing his hand on Prudencio's shoulder said he was the man he saw on October 10, 1931, at the house.

Later the man left and he next saw him about 4 or 4:30 o'clock two days later on a Monday morning. The witness said he had arisen to get his breakfast to go to work. There were a few of the other men in the place but most of them were still asleep. Prudencio or Red Rublo had entered the door with a gun in each hand and behind him came four other men all armed with either guns or black-jacks. Red Rublo at the time had a black woman's silk stocken over his head with two eye holes cut in it. He entered the house with his men behind and mounted a table and covered the men while his assistant went about and woke the other men and brought them down stairs. At the foot of the stairs stood a man with a black-jack who searched the boarders as they came downstairs. When the victims were searched they were made to stand with their face to the wall and their hands up. The witness said he had been in that position and had not seen the landlord robbed of his $1,500. Later the men were all placed in the cellar and the robbers left. Red Rublo was referred to by the men as "chief" during this operation.

Standing on the table with his two guns covering the men already in the room the witness said the "chief" commanded that all of the men be brought down and searched.

The direct examination of the witness was concluded before noon and Francis T. Murray, counsel for defendants, cross-examined the witness.

Abramsky Sentenced
To 5 to 10 Year Term

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Louis Abramsky, 32, was sentenced today to serve from 5 to 10 years in prison on conviction of first-degree rape in connection with the death of Hilda Price, a waitress. Abramsky pleaded guilty. Justice Walter F. Biles, of the Appellate Division, who sentenced Abramsky, received a petition signed by a group of Poughkeepsie residents asking leniency for him.

Mrs. Price died after a New Year's Eve automobile with Abramsky and Edward A. Cannon.

Cannon is serving 20 years to life in Sing Sing prison for second degree murder.

Wicks' School Bill
Passed in the Senate

Albany, April 23.—(Special)—The Senate passed yesterday Arthur H. Wicks' bill permitting a mayor of a city to appoint a non-salaried official of the school system under the education department to make appointments to fill vacancies in schools that are under its jurisdiction.

Under the provisions of the new measure, now before the Assembly and expected to be acted upon next week by that body, any mayor may choose such an official who in turn may appoint a person so qualified to fill a position wherever there is a vacancy in a school faculty.

755 Veniremen Called
In Volckmann Case

Catskill, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Two jurors and two alternates remained to be chosen today to try Alfred E. Volckmann, 20-year-old Greenville butcher boy, for the murder of 3-year-old Helen Glenn.

Sheriff's deputies summoned 200 more veniremen, making a total of 755 called so far in an effort to select a trial panel.

The tenth juror, seated yesterday, is Matthew Davenport, 50. He is a Catskill marine engineer and the third member of the jury who is not a father. All ten are married men.

Helen Glenn's father, the Rev. Ernest E. Glenn of Greenville, spoke to Volckmann in the courtroom yesterday.

"He just passed the time of day with me, that's all," Volckmann said afterward. The accused youth formerly played the violin at services in Mr. Glenn's church.

DEATH ENDS WORRIES
OF CHICAGO INVESTOR

Chicago, April 23 (AP)—The two-night vigil which John Bukowski, 50, kept with his wife among their possessions heaped on the sidewalk in front of the 12-apartment building he once owned, ended today when Bukowski hanged himself from a porch railing of the building. The Bukowskies and their two children were evicted Tuesday from the apartment house in which the father invested his life savings—$13,600.

Stigma of Birthright
Would Be Removed in Governor's Measure

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—Governor Lehman asked today for legislation "which will remove the stigma of illegitimacy from the unfortunate children born out of wedlock."

In a message to the legislature, the governor recalled that he vetoed a bill designed to accomplish this purpose at the close of the 1935 session because it "might do more harm than good."

He then presented a report of an unofficial commission he had named, making the following recommendations which the governor said would be embodied in a bill:

No direct questions of illegitimacy be included on the birth certificate.

The birth certificate be carefully guarded and not open for general inspection but available for legal purposes.

Certifications of birth, as distinguished from the original record of birth, be used for all purposes for which a birth certificate is required. Provision be made for the substitution of a new record of birth in the event of the subsequent marriage of the parents of the child.

New Jersey Jobless
Shift to the Senate

Trenton, N. J., April 23 (AP)—The group of jobless men holding a marathon mock session of the New Jersey assembly in the assembly chamber moved down the statehouse corridor into the marble-paneled senate chamber today.

State authorities had asked the group to leave its quarters to permit civil service examinations to be held in the assembly room, but the group refused to go anywhere but to the senate chamber.

After an hour of negotiations between representatives of the group, state officials and the Rev. Robert Smith, Trenton minister, who was called in as an intermediary, the state house custodian, Parker Sweet, announced the unemployed could occupy the senate room.

The agreement was that no more than 20 would be allowed on the floor as there are only 20 seats—all upholstered—and the rest would be obliged to sit in the balcony.

The group, carrying a coffee urn, thick China coffee mugs, bags of sandwiches and a few blankets, walked quietly down the corridor and continued their siege there. They said they would not leave the state house until the legislature provided emergency relief funds, which became exhausted last Thursday. It is in recess until Monday.

Washing machines manufactured in Canada during 1935 numbered 91,537 compared with 84,079 in 1934 and 58,921 in 1933.

Wells Weaver, Donald Weaver, Miss Dorothy Weaver, Mrs. Ethelinda Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence P. Gaffney, Salvatore Seimeca and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gaffney.

Injured When Car
Crashes Into Pole

At about 1:30 o'clock this morning a Marmon sedan traveling south from Kingston to New York left the roadway on the two-strip concrete pavement at Highland Orchards, north of Highland village, and crashed into an electric light pole breaking it off. The car then overturned. Martin Auerback of 352 Eighth avenue, New York city, driver of the car, was not injured to any extent, but Charles Goldberg, 45, of 250 West 9th street, New York city, suffered a broken collar bone. A third man in the car was not injured. The injured were taken by Sergeant John Lockhart of Highland to Dr. Meekins of Highland for treatment.

The accident happened on a straight stretch of road and no reason was given by the driver for the accident when he reported it to the Troopers and summoned Sergeant Lockhart to the scene. The car, which was badly damaged, was towed to Smith's Garage at Highland. At the time the party was returning home after visiting friends in Kingston, the driver said.

Friday, 13th. Not Jonah

to Many Old-Timers

One of the most widely known of the "13" superstitions is that it is unlucky to sit at a table where there are 13 persons. Tradition has it that some one of the 13 will die within the year. Some authorities say this dates back to the time of Christ when 13 gathered at the table for the Last Supper. Judas Iscariot was the first to leave and all are familiar with his fate. However, it is known that this superstition was rife among the Asiatics long before that.

Others trace it back to Scandinavian mythology when the 12 major gods were seated about a table in Valhalla and the evil spirit, Loki, arrived to make the 13th. Friday bears special significance in this connection because it was the festival of certain gods. Their wrath was sure to fall on the unwary heads of all who did not give up their own pursuits on that day to indulge in the festival.

In Paris, there are persons known as "fourteeners" because it is their business to be available to all who wish a 14th guest at parties and dinners when only 13 appear.

However, there are those persons who have no fear of the dreaded number but take it as their good luck symbol. In the national capital the auto tag numbered 13 has gone to the same person for a number of years while a great demand exists for the tags number 1,313 and 13,131.

Louis XIII of France chose a title with 13 letters and always made his most important decisions and moves on the 13th. Napoleon, the explorer, started on an Arctic expedition on the 13th with 13 men and returned home on the 13th, later attending a dinner party on Friday, the 13th, as the 13th guest. Richard Wagner, the composer, was born on the 13th in 1813. Anciently observed a 13-month calendar and the old custom of giving a bride 13 pieces of gold exists in Latin countries that have any gold.

Jibuti, Capital French

Somaliland, an Odd City

Jibuti, the capital of French Somaliland, is a city of strange contrasts. It boasts of many modern things, though its normal white population is less than 700 and in the desert behind it wander tribes not far removed from savagery. Night, when the blistering sun has disappeared, is Jibuti's busy time. At midday, from eleven to three, white and black alike shrink into whatever shade there is, and activity slows to a minimum.

The only French port of call on the Suez route to Madagascar, French Indo-China, and other French colonial possessions in the East, Jibuti is of considerable strategic importance. French Somaliland, of which it is the capital, shares command of the entrance to the Red sea with the British protectorate of Aden, 150 miles opposite on the coast of Arabia.

Jibuti lies on a coast consisting chiefly of sand and volcanic rock, with here and there a patch of low scrub. The Gulf of Tadjourah, on which it stands, bites into the coast to a depth of 30 miles. Cliffs of volcanic stone form the shores of this gulf for many miles. Five miles inland from the tip of the gulf is Lake Assal, Somaliland's "Little Dead Sea," nearly 500 feet below sea level. Its shores are encrusted with salt deposits, and the gathering of this salt is a major industry. France has held part of Somaliland since 1904, when the Port of Obok was bought.

Many Hawks on "Black List"

Many of the hawks are candidly admitted to merit the ill opinion and the hostility of man. The goshawk, sharp-shinned hawk, Cooper's hawk and duck hawk, which are attackers of song birds and game birds as well as occasional barnyard fowls, are bracketed under one condemnation, as "species of which little that is favorable can be said." These four, with occasional aid from the pigeon hawk, are almost entirely responsible for the bad name that hawks in general have to bear.

Phrase "In Order to"

The phrase "in order to" is defined: "For the purpose of; to the end that." With such meaning, and without an infinitive or noun following the phrase, it has been used by the following writers: Clarke (1653); Evelyn (1672); Spenser (1711); Burke (1773); Harriet Martineau (1837); and Goulburn (1869). With an infinitive object, the expression has been used by Steele (1711); Goldsmith (1774); Cruise (1818); and Chamber's Encyclopedia (1868).—Literary Digest.

City for Dead, Not Gloomy

Mexico's Mita ruins, south of the city of Oaxaca, was designed from textile patterns by weavers who first played with the possibility of a loom, then translated to stone. Mita, a city built only for the dead, is not by any means a gloomy place. Its walls are so richly colored as an Oriental rug. In Mexico's early day the word was "Brighten the corner where you are."

What pH Value Means

The symbol pH refers to the chemical condition of a soil; that is, it states whether it is alkaline, acid or neutral, says the Pacific Rural Press. By neutral is meant a condition similar to that of pure water. pH 7 is the symbol of neutrality. Values below 7 indicate alkalinity. For instance a soil of pH 5 is decidedly acid, one of pH 9 decidedly alkaline.

To Press for Bill Exempting Reservoirs

Albany, April 23 (Special).—Senator Samuel J. Mandelbaum, a New York Democrat, will press this afternoon for final passage of his measure intended to exempt from taxation all aqueducts, reservoirs, dams and other construction owned by municipalities. Previously he is reported as having said that the bill was dead in committee, but today he said this his party leader, Senator John J. Dunnigan, also of New York, advised him to seek its passage.

Senator Arthur H. Wickes of Kingston is prepared to vigorously oppose the measure. A similar bill was defeated last fall. If it should pass the Senate it is expected that it will be killed in the Assembly, which is Republican controlled.

The measure if it became a law would exempt the Ashokan reservoir owned by New York city from taxation.

Publishers Vote On Lobby Question

New York, April 23 (AP)—Members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association met today to vote on a resolution attacking the Senate lobby committee's telegraph seizure as abridgement of freedom of the press.

The resolution freed the committee headed by Senator Hugo L. Black (D., Ala.) "The Black Inquisition." This and other resolutions concerning this constitutional guarantee were presented and discussed yesterday in a formal report by the ANPA committee on freedom of the press, headed by Col. Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune.

The report urged the victims of these "illegal acts" to demand criminal prosecution of "all involved in the odious affair." In seizing the telegrams the Senate committee, the report said, had the cooperation of the federal communications commission.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of the New York Times, in discussing the general subject said:

"Unlike some of you, I am not convinced that the present administration in Washington has or had designs upon the freedom of the press, or on any of the other fundamental rights of our citizenry; yet I do believe these rights have been placed in serious jeopardy."

The dangers, he said, "are those inherent in the increasing complexities of our modern business and political affairs."

Howard Davis, business manager of the New York Herald Tribune, told the convention:

"Recent events again have proved that free speech and a free press as a condition as a living fact, can be preserved only by hard and persistent fighting."

Prosecution Calls Survivor
Bartow, Fla., April 23 (AP)—Prosecution forces in the trial of seven former Tampa policemen accused of the kidnap-flogging of three labor organizers last November, were expected to call E. F. Poulton, one of the two survivors, to the stand today. The first story of the beating, lashing and feathering that proved fatal to Joseph Shoemaker was told by Sam Rogers—like the others a member of the Modern Democratic, coalition political organization, Cross-examination developed Rogers had not brought aid to Shoemaker until several hours after the beating. It is for the kidnapping of Poulton that six of the defendants are being tried. The seventh, former Police Chief R. C. Tittsworth, is charged as an accessory after the fact.

Two Rescued Men In Field Hospital

As they listened at the tiny opening extending from the pit.

It was feared that the mine was flooding.

Then a telephone line, bearing a tiny microphone—but no way for Robertson and Scadding to hear from above—was thrust down the diamond drill hole.

After that, the people on the surface could tell what was happening below, although the suffering men had no way of knowing what the progress toward them might be.

On Tuesday night, however, they heard the sound of picks as the draegermen chopped doggedly toward their tomb. A few hours later, Dr. Robertson shouted joyfully toward his microphone that he could hear the voices of the rescue workers.

Draft of Air

With every hour that passed Wednesday the sounds of the approaching rescue became louder. Finally a draft of air flowed through the close confines of the tomb.

At last the earth suddenly fell away and the grimy, cheery face of a draegerman appeared.

Still there were pipes to be saved through and a wider way to be broken out before the imprisoned men could be removed.

But after that time seemed nothing. Other men could talk to Robertson and Scadding.

And it was only a little time until, above ground, they sang: "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Scadding, who had lived in the little mine office building while waiting and praying for the rescue, went to their husbands' sides as they were removed to the emergency hospital.

The three physicians in charge of the medical unit, Dr. H. K. MacDonald, Dr. N. D. Rankin and Dr. Ian MacDonald, announced at 2:10 a. m.

"Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding arrived at the improvised hospital at 1:10 a. m. today. Dr. Robertson's physical and mental condition is excellent. It is much better than anticipated. We feel he will have a rapid recovery.

"Alfred Scadding's condition is surprisingly good. His feet were cold and swollen and somewhat blistered, but we do not anticipate further trouble.

Transfer to Halifax.

The patients will be left in Moose River a few days, then transferred to Halifax.

"In the meantime they will receive medical and hospital supervision at the emergency hospital here."

A coroner's jury was called to determine the cause of the death of Magill, Toronto barrister, and partner with Dr. Robertson in ownership of the goldmine. The inquest will be held late today.

Both Dr. Robertson and Scadding were bright and cheerful when three draegermen succeeded at last in breaking from the main operating shaft into the 141-foot level that was their prison.

Jack Simpson of nearby Stellarton, captain of the draegerman crew, George Morrell of Stellarton and H. Hirschfeld of Goldenville passed, one after the other, the last barrier of fallen rock that had held the prisoners within the earth.

Trembling with excitement, Dr. Robertson and Scadding thanked the men, asked and answered a few commonplace questions.

"Do you fellows want to walk up?" one of the rescue crew asked, jokingly.

"Now boys, take it easy," Scadding replied.

"I think I can undertake it myself," Dr. Robertson said with a quiet smile.

The rescuers did not wait to explore the men's underground prison after they broke through.

They went directly to the two living men, lying prostrate about 20 feet away from the body of Magill, the spot where the body had been since Magill died, and from which Dr. Robertson and Scadding kept their faces turned.

Simpson said the survivors were apparently in the same spot to which all three men had jumped to safety when the old mine collapsed.

Describing the scene of the entombment, Simpson said:

"It was about seven feet wide and 12 feet high, but I don't know how long. It was very wet and damp."

Nova Scotia Proud

Moose River, N. S., April 23 (AP)—Nova Scotia had reason today to be proud of its famous mine rescue organization, the Draegermen—who set their name from the fact that their equipment for underground labor was invented by Professor Draeger of Germany.

Jack Simpson, captain of the Draegermen, George Morrell and Joseph Neuring were among the Draegermen who reached the underground prison of Dr. R. E. Robertson and C. E. Scadding in the Moose River gold mine.

Morrell took off his shirt and wrapped it about Scadding. After the survivors had been carried to the surface, Morrell triumphantly cut the telephone line that was Robertson and Scadding's lifeline since Sunday.

Gold miners from Goldenville and coal workers from Westville, Glace Bay and many other points shared in the heart-breaking work. Two men pulled away the shaft face, others scooped up the loose dirt and stones, passing it back in an endless chain to leave a clear passage. Carpenters busily contributed supports that the shaft might not crumple.

"My boys went down with the intention of staying down until they brought Dr. Robertson and Scadding out. I am proud of them," said Simpson. "We don't care about the risk—that's what makes the job worth-while. I don't take any chances. I have a wife and two children at home in Stellarton."

Prominent Among Heroes

Prominent among the heroes were Bill Bell of New Glasgow and his co-workers, Walter Smith, with their helpers, Peter Sullivan and Campbell Mackay.

In 32 hours they drilled a 102-foot hole down to the prison. During that time Bell did not sleep. Working practically blindly, without

Tax Evasion Charge Catches Torrio Today

New York, April 23 (AP)—A variation of the tax evasion charge which sent Al Capone to Alcatraz prison, finally caught up with Johnny Torrio, once the Chicago gangster's leader and landed in jail today the man the underworld knew as "the Immune."

Torrio was held here for Federal Internal Revenue agents after he was arrested at nearby White Plains last night while making final preparations to flee the country.

Torrio was booked on a federal charge of conspiracy to defraud the government of alcohol and spirit taxes.

For six years Torrio dominated the bloody field of Chicago gangdom, a period during which upwards of 1,500 lives were taken in hoodlum warfare.

Finally a rank foe—Bugs Moran—caught up with the wily Beer Baron and shot away half his chin.

After hospitalization, Torrio was sent to the Waukegan (Ill.) jail to serve several months on a minor charge. In reality, it was claimed by many, he sought a haven there from gangland bullets.

He fled Illinois after the jail term.

James Cagney is charged. Since then Torrio had become a New York's "No. 2" person, a subject, and his name was associated with that of Charles "Lucky" Luciano, who only last week was brought here by force from New York, Ark., to face special charges on charges of conspiracy to defraud.

Special agents of the government arrested Torrio when he was lured to White Plains post-office for a day's registered letter supposedly containing his passport. He had planned, the agents indicated, to take a Canadian ship to South America.

Two Sentenced to Jail

Two strangers arrested for public intoxication this morning at Highland, James Burns, 28, of Massachusetts, and Frank Murray, 37, Newburgh, were sentenced by Justice V. Barker Decker of that village to serve 10 days in the Ulster county jail.

Players' Guild Meeting

There will be a very important meeting of the Kingston Players' Guild this evening at the Municipal Auditorium at 8 o'clock sharp. All members are asked to be present.

Lloyd Nelson of the movies worked his way around the world on a freighter at the close of his sophomore year at Stanford university.

Ten Days In Jail

Joseph Rivetti, 15, of Massachusetts, was sentenced to 10 days in the Ulster county jail, Wednesday, by Justice of the Peace H. W. Barker Decker of Poughkeepsie, for carrying a dangerous weapon.

Tagging Major League Bases

By SCOTT KESTON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Scrambling from one shaky victory to another, the New York Giants are doing their level best in the National League these days, but for all their staggering they don't fall off the top of the pile.

Instead, they keep climbing. They have been charged with 15 errors in eight games; their pitchers have squandered long leads; but their team is piddled by injuries, but in meeting every emergency Manager Bill Terry has been so superbly right that the substitute in almost every case has done better than the original.

First, he picked Rookie Harry Gumbert to pitch the second game of the season. Gumbert pitched a four hit game and won. Then Dick Bartell fell ill. Terry put in Joe Martin. This rookie batted .667 so far. Next Sam Leslie reported with a fever and Terry put in Terry. His first day out. Substitute Terry got three hits in three times out; yesterday against the Phils he got three more.

In spite of these forced shifts the Giants yesterday won their second straight from Jimmy Wilson's Phils, 7-2. It also was the second victory of the season for Carl Hubbell who hit three singles in four times up.

There were two home runs in the game. Leiber smashing one in the first with two on, and Jimmy Wilson hitting one in the seventh.

The only other home runs in the majors yesterday were hit in the eighth inning of the Red-Cards game at Cincinnati by utility outfielders Calvin Chapman and Lew Riggs, both of the Reds. These hits, scoring three runs, enabled the Reds to defeat the Cards, 7-6.

George Earnshaw turned in the Dodgers' best pitching job of the season, a five-hitter which shut out the Bees, 5-0. Every man in the Brooklyn infield, Hassett, Frey, Geraghty, and Bucher hit safely twice out of four times up. The Dodgers had only two other hits.

In the American League, the Red Sox, outlived 12-6, beat the Senators, 4-3, and edged closer to the league lead. Fred Ostermuller, Red Sox pitcher, drove in two runs with his double in the fifth.

Hitting safely 18 times, the Browns won their second straight game from the world champion Tigers, 12-4, in the only other game played in the majors.

Shimek Elected Manager and Pro Of Wiltwyck Golf Club

At a very enthusiastic meeting of the directors of Wiltwyck Golf Club, held last Thursday evening, Frank Shimek was elected manager and pro of the club for the present season. Frank Shimek is well known to Kingstonians as a basketball player of the highest rank, having been a member of the Kingston American Legion and Cities Service teams for several seasons past. He also stands high as an excellent golfer and can be found every day now at the course on Hurley avenue, ready to give lessons to any who apply.

It was stated at the meeting that the new tractor and fairway mower had arrived and are now at work getting the course in first class shape. Players are using the course every day now and new members are joining in large numbers. It is expected that by next year new members will be obliged to pay an initiation fee to get into the club. Only a nominal membership fee is required to join this season, hence the desire for new members to join now.

A. R. Newcombe, who was elected president of the club, has returned from spending the winter in Florida and is now taking an active part in making improvements to the club house and course. The club house is being painted white with green trimmings and the lockers are being placed in condition for use and it is expected that shower baths will be installed before the hot weather sets in.

It is stated that Windham will be the first club to play the Wiltwyck golfers on the home course, early in May, and other clubs will be here at various dates during the summer. The ladies are planning for social affairs at the club house and a busy season is in prospect.

Walden Richburghs In Closing Match At Emerick's Tonight

John Geschwinder, brilliant Walden bowling artist, makes his appearance in Kingston tonight with the Walden Richburghs in the closing match of the Hudson Valley League schedule at Emerick's Recreation at 8 o'clock.

Geschwinder, who averaged 203 for 84 games in the Walden loop, is hitting about 197 in the valley league. Tom McDermott, who averaged 198 last season, Dory Cryer, holder of the 703 record, Babe Jensen and Job Flacke round out the Walden lineup. The visitors average 245 per game.

Kingston will be represented by Captain Eddie Nodjeska, Ken Williams, Lou Hynes, Randy Keider and Homer Emerick.

Brother Buddy Growing Up to "Normal of 270"

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—Buddy Beer, giant young brother of Ex-Champion Max Beer, put on so much weight of late that his father consulted a physician specializing in diet.

Papa Beer was told his 21-year-old, who stands 6 feet 4 inches, would attain a normal (for him) weight of 265 to 270 pounds, and this without an ounce of fat.

Buddy scales 235 now. The young fellow comes in his size naturally enough. His father is a 250-pounder and his mother weighs in the neighborhood of 200. Max hit 277 pounds now. An aunt on his father's side weighs 300 pounds and has no surplus adipose.

Lincoln, Neb.—Ray Richards, 227, Lincoln, defeated Phil Martin, 245, Boston two out of three falls (Martin disqualified on third fall).

Ex-Squirrel Hunter Fires Shots Heard 'Round World In Marksmanship Rivalry

Dallas, (AP)—The man who took up competitive marksmanship because he "grew tired of shootin' squirrels" is celebrating the completion of a decade in which he won hundreds of trophies and took part in 15 international matches.

He is sharp-shooting Thurman Randle of Dallas. He didn't take up shooting competition until he was 35 years old.

His greatest feat, to which he points with pride, was the world record he hung up in a Swiss match on July 2, 1934, at the Eastern Championships, Camp Ritchie, Md.

Endurance Contest, Too

In this match, where the contestant fires until he misses, Randle peppered the bull's-eye with 146 consecutive shots from the 200-yard mark. It was something of an endurance feat, too, requiring two hours 17 minutes.

Each year since he began matching shots with other sharpshooters, Randle has been a member of the DeWitt team which engages England in international rivalry.

Twice he has gone to England as a member of the United States Rifle cup team, and now he is preparing for another trip abroad next year when the series is resumed after a 6-year lapse.

Three times Randle shot with the F.I.D.A.C. cup team which competes against all nations. Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana first offered the cup several years ago when he was national commander of the American Legion.

A Few Championships

In this country, Randle—a gunshop owner—has held the national midwinter small-bore championship, Missouri title twice, Oklahoma twice California, Kansas, Texas seven times, eastern twice and southwestern the last five years. In 1935 he won the national midwinter, southwestern, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas titles.

Besides being an expert marksman Randle is a "missionary" devoted to spreading the popularity of his favorite sport—rifle-firing.

Princeton Varsity an Unknown Quantity

Princeton, N. J., April 23 (AP)—Although the Princeton Varsity crew will open its season Saturday against Penn and Columbia in the Childs Cup Regatta on the Harlem, it still is more or less of an unknown quantity, even to its amateur coach, Gordon Sikes.

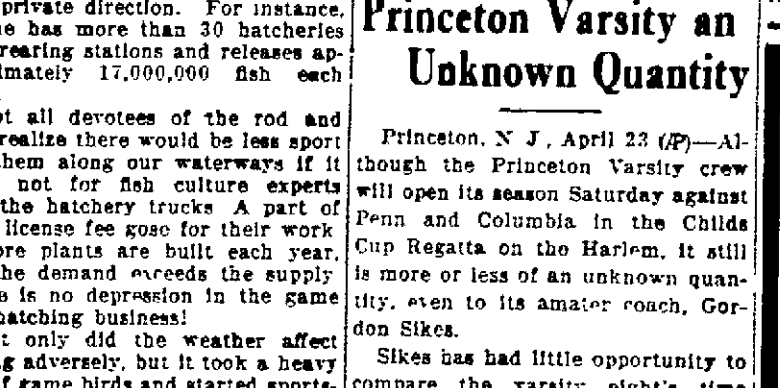

Sikes has had little opportunity to compare the varsity eight's time trials with past practice performances inasmuch as the new Lake Carnegie course is being used regularly for the first time this year. The course now is a reversal of the old, running from south to north instead of from north to south. It was used for the Childs Cup Regatta last May, when Penn, the winning eight, rowed the mile and three-quarters in 9 minutes, 18½ seconds.

The oarsmen in the No. 1 boat are a rangy lot—six of them six feet three or over and the other two six feet even—but they average only about 175 pounds.

Captain Gordon Keppel of New York, 6-7 and 189 pounds, is at No. 7. Fred Osborn of New York city, 6-3 and 172, is No. 3; and Brooke Stoddard of Garden City, L. I., 6 feet and 170, bow.

West and Southwest Athletes Favored in The Penn Relay Races

Philadelphia, April 23 (AP)—Athletes from the west and southwest, particularly the Longhorns from Texas and the Buckeyes from Ohio State appeared today to be the boys to beat in many headline events of the 12th renewal of the Penn relays this week-end.

As the 5,000-odd athletes from 500 colleges and schools began arriving for final workouts on Franklin Field before the start of the two-day carnival tomorrow, it appeared the east's representatives would have to do some mighty running and heaving to bring the honors to their own back yards.

The Texans were the odds on choice to gallop off with both the short distance relays—the 440 and 880. The Longhorns recently set a world's mark for the 880, and last week, at the Kansas relays, they won both events in faster times than the existing Penn relays records.

Ohio State, meantime, was considered a threat in half a dozen events, both relays and individual, particularly in the latter, where Jesse Owens, the brilliant Buckeye, and Temple's Eulice Peacock renew their dual rivalry in the 100-meter sprint and the broad jump.

Michigan State was another stand-out threat from the west, particularly in the distance medley and four-mile relays. From the east, Manhattan and Cornell seemed to have the greatest all-round strength, the New Yorkers in the distance medley and two miles and Cornell in the shuttle hurdle and freshman mile, so far as prizes were concerned, with each presenting two or three individual contenders.

Grant Meets Surface, Winner Over Allison, In Mason-Dixon Match

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 23 (AP)—The California contingent on the Davis Cup team had to decide today which of the two Los Angeles boys will enter the finals of the Mason-Dixon Tennis Tourney.

Don Budge, the red-haired singles ace who already has put out Johnny Van Ryn of the Davis Cup doubles combination, found himself matched against his home townner, Gene Mako. Bryan (Blay) Grant of Atlanta, the other Davis Cup survivor, had to take on dangerous Hal Surface of Kansas City.

Surface pushed Wilmer Allison, the Davis Cup captain, out of the picture, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, yesterday. Grant turned back Wilmer Hines of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-2.

Mako had little trouble with Gilbert Hall of New York. The semi-finals of the women's singles matched Eunice Dean of San Antonio against Helen Fulton of Winnetka, Ill. and Norma Taubel of New York against Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson of Boston.

Members of the Kingston Colonials, baseball club, spring a surprise two of them in fact, when at a meeting Wednesday night held at the Crystal Beauty Shoppe, the noted not only to reject the invitation to enter the State Baseball League but also to stay out of the Kingston City League.

The players thought that the guarantees were too high and that there was too much financial risk in a tempting State League game. They no longer stadium available in Kingston.

As a result of the Colonials' action in regard to participation in the City League game, the players will not be eligible to play with any of the clubs in either the first or second half of the City League scheduled.

The Colonials will practice Sunday at 2:30 at the Pan-Am diamond, where all home games will be played Saturday afternoon and Monday night contests will be booked at Athletic Field.

Manager David gives the following as the official roster of the Colonials: Pitchers—Bill Thomas, Ted Freleigh, Frank Bruno, Warren Shaeffer, catcher—Joe Hoffman, infielders—Frank Ascenzo, Tom Davis, Normie Niles, Paul Joyce, John Carpenter, Hank Baker, outfielders—Charles Lay, Pres Knight, Charles Tiano.

The Colonials will sponsor a big dance to be held May 13 at the Municipal Auditorium, with music by Clyde McCoy and his Sugar Blues orchestra.

It is announced that a Glaxo club will probably be secured to take the place of the Crystal Beauty Shoppe in the City League. A special meeting of the City League will be called for Monday night at which time the situation created by the withdrawal of the Colonials will be discussed.

Very Tough Customer

New York, April 23 (AP)—National League pitchers are finding Joe Moore of the Giants a very tough customer to face right at the start of a ball game. In eight contests so far, Moore the leadoff man has hit safely six times on his first trip to the plate. He drew a walk on other time.

Congressional Snore
Washington, April 23 (AP)—The sounds of congressmen snoring may soon be the only noise that breaks the stillness of Washington nights. As part of an anti-noise campaign, the District of Columbia commissioners plan to approve a regulation outlawing all blowing of auto horns between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m. Any one who toots for any reason whatever will be liable to a $300 fine or ten days in jail. Authorities also will take steps against leather-lunged newspaper vendors, needless clanging of street car gongs, loud radios and rattling manhole covers.

The British are a deliberate people, but they have finally discovered that they have a new king, and think they can get around to crowning him by May, 1937.

FRENCH PREPARE FEVERISHLY FOR 'NEXT WAR'

Fearing the outbreak of another war, France is building to protect the men, women and children who will be endangered far behind the front. Great underground safety chambers are being built in the Paris subway system. At left is a steel door through which people would flee below. Top right, an intake through which fresh air will be aspirated. Bottom, right, a view of the subway tunnel with a tube along the ceiling to distribute unpoisoned air. (Associated Press Photos)

The courts of the All England Lawn Tennis Club at Wimbledon, in South-West London, are being prepared for one of the busiest and most important seasons in the history of the game.

The trouble with these depressions is that they come so far apart, you are too old to benefit by the experiences you had in the first one when the second one rolls around.
